

Paranauê

Paranauê	Paranauê
Paranauê, paranauê, Paraná*	Paranauê, paranauê, Paraná
Paranauê, paranauê, Paraná	Paranauê, paranauê, Paraná
Vou dizer minha mulher Paraná Capoeira me venceu Paraná	I'm going to tell my wife Paraná Capoeira overtook me Paraná
Paranauê, paranauê, Paraná	Paranauê, paranauê, Paraná
Eu aqui não sou feliz, Paraná Mas na minha terra eu sou, Paraná	I'm not happy here Paraná But in my land I am Paraná
Paranauê, paranauê, Paraná	Paranauê, paranauê, Paraná
Vou me embora pra Bahia Paraná Eu aqui nao fico nao Paraná	I'm leaving for Bahia Paraná I'm not staying here Paraná
Paranauê, paranauê, Paraná	Paranauê, paranauê, Paraná
Vou me embora pra Bahia Paraná Como ja disse que eu vou Paraná	I'm leaving for Bahia Paraná Like I already said, I'm going Paraná
Paranauê, paranauê, Paraná	Paranauê, paranauê, Paraná

The chorus for this song starts on 3, and the calls start on 2

* Paranauê, paranauê, Paraná: Paraná is a huge river in South America that crossed Brazil, Argentina, and Paraguay. Paraná comes from the indigenous Tupi Guarani language and means "Like the sea/As big as the sea". Paranauê is a contraction of Paraná with the Tupi Guarani greeting Auê.

 You can substitute "minha mulher" (my wife/ my woman) with anything. "Meu homen" (my man/husband), "meu amigo"/ "minha amiga"/ "minhe amigue" (all meaning "my friend", for a friend with masculine/feminine/gender neutral pronouns), "meu amor" (my love- though amor is a masculine ending word, the term can be used for people with any gender pronoun as the masculine ending is for the word "love/amor" and not the person)).
