

Cookie Policy

We don't use cookies. Here's what that means for you.

The short version: we don't use cookies.

Not for tracking, not for ads, not for anything. Vanguard Scholar doesn't set any cookies on your device. We don't track your visits, remember your preferences, or follow you around the web after you leave.

There's no login, so there's nothing to remember.

Cookies are usually used to keep you signed in or remember your settings. Since Vanguard Scholar has no login and no accounts, there's nothing for a cookie to do here — so we simply don't use them.

About our hosting platform.

This site runs on GoDaddy's Websites + Marketing platform. As our host, GoDaddy may place its own technical cookies to operate the platform itself — this is outside our control and separate from anything Vanguard Scholar does. We don't access, use, or have visibility into whatever GoDaddy's platform collects.

Managing cookies.

If you'd like to manage or clear cookies stored by your browser (including any placed by GoDaddy's platform), you can do this through your browser's settings — every major browser has a “clear cookies” or “privacy” option. Since we don't set any cookies ourselves, there's nothing on our end to opt out of.