

Men's Golf League News, May – 2024

Fake News Reporter - Tad Lague

#1 Hole-In-One Report – March 21, Thursday Men's League outing, on the short 12th hole, John Murray hit a soft sand wedge to a left center pin which landed on the green, bounced straight 2 times and hopped into the hole. Witnesses and playing partners, Dave Burns, Dan Johnson and John McEwen confirmed the ace, removing any doubt.

Unsurprisingly, John's "1" was not without controversy. As we all know, he who drops an ace, is bound to buy a round of drinks in the Sand Trap. John swears he bought 7 buckets of beer but when questioned across the Men's League membership, not a single thirsty patron can recall John ponying up the cash for beers. A debate that will remain active until John's next hole-in-one.

#2 Hole-In-One Report – April 1, Monday Marauders, Fred Kline was on the 12th hole with a 6 Iron, hit a perfectly calculated low runner that bounced twice before a left front pin, rolled about 10 feet and straight into the hole. Fred was heard by the group behind to say, "For the 1st time, I'm glad the Sand Trap is closed on Mondays". However, Graham Jack was happy for an excuse to pull out the Fireball shots to celebrate with fellow witnesses Kevin Young and Detroit Dave Shearer. A red-eyed Dave requested no photos of the incident when he heard the word "witness".

#3 Hole-In-One Report – It was during the Superintendent’s Revenge Tournament where the course was set up with impossible pin positions. In particular, on the 17th hole, the pin was located at the front left portion of the green where balls roll back to a watery grave many times a day regardless of the pin position.

Nick Martinello hit a gap wedge that landed inches past the pin and trickled back into the hole giving Nick his 24th lifetime ace and his 7th at Lake Fairways. Witnesses Dave and Cathy Burns along with wife Paula said this was just the spark that the team needed to move forward in the tournament.
