A Note from Rick: Markets were very active this week at TLA, but did struggle to hold up some of the very strong prices we've had recently. The hay market was steady and seems to be stuck where it's at. There's been a big volume of hay, which is normal for this time of year. The calf market continues to be very steady as it's been for quite some time. The butcher cow market was very strong, but not quite as wild as last week; I would say the same for the Springer Sale on Thursday. Springers weren't quite as high as the December sale, but all-in-all I thought they sold well. We also had a nice group of fresh heifers on Thursday that brought $2500 to $2600. The really good fresh cattle seem to be bringing a nice premium recently. I've heard and seen of this in several other cases over the last few months; I guess I do not see any big changes in the dairy cattle market moving forward. There's a limited supply of cattle on the market, but the demand isn't what it used to be either. Hope you all have a great week and we look forward to seeing you at TLA!!
