A Note from Rick: More of the same from the markets this week. One market that stood out to me this week was the hay market. The hay has been stronger over the last few weeks but took a significant jump this week. We have not been getting a lot of hay to offer and I would guess that has a little bit to do with the higher prices. I look for prices to continue to be very strong until new hay is made. A couple weeks ago we welcomed the rain as overall conditions were a little dry and once it started it hasn't seemed to stop. Which is normal for early spring weather but at least temperatures have been very mild. April is here and it will not be long until the 2024 growing season is in full swing. Have a great week and we hope to see you at TLA!
