A Note from Rick: Markets were a little softer on Tuesday at TLA. The calf market, along with the butcher cow market, were the two markets that stood out to me this week. Both markets have been very consistent all summer, but prices were weaker this week. In both cases, the number of cattle sold this week was considerably higher and the demand just couldn't keep up with the supply. This hasn't been an issue in either one of the markets for quite some time and that's been a big part of the consistency in prices. The Morgan Classic on Friday and Saturday was a dandy! Prices were very strong. We had 230 head of horses in the sale, which is considerably more than previous years, but the market held strong from start to finish. The combination of good horses and a very active group of bidders was on display for sure. Thank you to all who took part in making this sale a success.
