A note from Rick: Mixed markets at TLA this week. On Tuesday markets were softer across the board. The calf market took a big hit with prices falling $.30 to $.50 per lb. compared to last week. We did have a bigger run this week, but the market was definitely weaker. Slaughter cows were weaker as well with prices being $4-$6 lower in most cases. This market is starting to get pressured with the summer heat bringing more cattle to the market. Holstein steers and mixed steers were steady to a little stronger in some cases. Thursday we held the Special Dairy Sale for July and prices were very strong. We had over 170 head of springers with several nice groups. Prices were $25 to $50 stronger than the June Sale. This market seems to be very stable and has been for several months now. Prices took a big jump during the first few months of 2022 and have seemed to level off and hold strong. The July special feeder sale is coming up and that will be a good test for that market. July is flying by and we have several catalogs in the works for our upcoming Fall Sales. We are also getting closer to the TLA Classic Show the first week in August. Don't miss out on all the fun here at TLA...it's where the action is!
