A Note from Rick: Markets were stronger at TLA this week. On Tuesday, the market that stood out the most to me was the butcher cow market. Cows were $8 to $10 higher, which put us back to prices we saw earlier in the Fall. Fat cattle prices have been on the rise as well, and overall beef prices are as strong as ever. This has trickled down into feeder prices as well as baby calves. Thursday's Special Springer Sale was stronger as well. Prices were $150 to $200 higher on average. Again, this put prices back to where they peaked last Fall. With milk futures looking better, and higher beef prices, this didn't come as a big surprise. Winter weather has set in and is forecasted to hang around for a while. In most cases this is welcomed in the livestock industry, providing us with a much cleaner and healthier environment. Stay warm, and we hope to see you soon at TLA!!
