

Jo Phillips

Areas of expertise

- Programme, and curriculum management
- Delivering bespoke programmes
- Authoring and curating learning
- Executive Coach & mentor
- Women in leadership
- Self-belief and confidence
- Diversity & Inclusion
- Bolton & Bolton Social Styles
- Personal Branding & Allyship

Education and qualifications

- ILMI7 Post Graduate Diploma
- Executive & Senior level
- Coaching & Mentoring
- Systemic Team Coach Certification
- Positive Intelligence practitioner
- Certificated Hogan Personality Assessor

Jo's early career was success in the Recruitment and staffing industry, for market leaders, such as, Staff line, Kelly and Adecco, before heading up Adecco's sales academy. Jo then transitioned into a role at national level, researching, designing, and delivering Learning and development for a boutique agency, across several mediums, including, classroom, static learning, online, and face to face. Jo has extensive experience having delivered over 23,000 hours of training, from onboarding, to process and procedure, legislation, sales cycle, recruitment, interviewing, assessing, management, leadership, and senior level trainings.

Jo has also trained trainers to become confident, successful authentic facilitators. Jo has researched, designed and delivered entire learning curricula for organisations to assist women in their ascent within their current organisations.

She also coaches and mentors' senior leaders, for whom she acts as a confidential sounding board and trusted critical friend. Jo's flair, passion and enthusiasm for women shines through in all that she does. She has worked with leading companies and organisations.

Currently, Jo works extensively supporting Women in leadership programmes, notably in HerSpark. A programme designed to create velocity in women's careers and beyond. This programme is designed to Empower, Elevate and help women to Excel, within their organisation, Increasing retention levels, by providing much needed specialist development at critical points during her career.

Jo is recognised for her inclusive, open, and knowledgeable approach. Jo also works 1-2-1, one by one, and coaches' women to help them to achieve their potential, last year alone Jo's clients gained an average salary increase of 39% with the highest increase being 70K, Jo is passionate about diversity and inclusion and is a gold level facilitator for Google's #IamRemarkable global initiative.

Jo's client's range from award winning Software, Fintech, FTSE 100 organisations She is based in the UK, has a preteen son, and is an avid fan of reading. She is constantly researching the challenges that women face, is a pod cast guest, and thoroughly enjoys public speaking.