

It's Complicated

- 1) Understand that the Press has to make readers & viewers want more!
- 2) Readers & viewers search for more because they tend to believe a storyline?
- 3) Most of the time the story is clouded to get you hooked on belief of a subject.
- 4) The movie “CONTACT”- Occam’s Razor, the simplest solution is usually correct.

The world needs powerful & wise leaders. America is usually the answer but, too many Americans are afraid of powerful leaders. Instead they go for old individuals who haven't become wise with age but insane, unrealistic, and foolish. Inhabitants of Earth can't live on a majority of green energy or allowing criminals to go free, changing the laws of science or overuse of AI and side-stepping basic rules of morality – unless failures is the expected and common sense is deemed irrelevant.

Truths are quiet, the lies are loud. President Reagan's “America is the bright shining light on a hill” – has passed. In general, voters are afraid to switch party voting. No party is correct all the time, one shouldn't be afraid of change – but weak minds are. Voters shouldn't be motivated by comfort, fear, or pride. Also news anchors are usually ignorant about government. They are just good readers & presenters of news the producers and news executives want them to present.

I believe the generation of children under 10 years old will be better than Generation X, Z and Millennials because they will see through all the disingenuous news of today. That is, unless parental poisoning is still active.
