HISTORY OF THE ICAAAA

by Dr. John A. Lucas, The Pennsylvania State University

(Excerpts from The IC4A Championships - A 100 Year History, which was published in the 1976 IC4A Championships program)

In 1876, the American people celebrated in stupendous fashion the one-hundredth anniversary of the Republic. Unnoticed amidst the national ecstasy was the formation of several Eastern universities into an Inter-collegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America — destined to be the oldest multiple intercollegiate track and field organization in the world.

Informal footraces, held as sideshows to the all important rowing regattas at Saratoga, N. Y., were held in 1873, 1874 and 1875. The first race featured a single two-mile run and was won by Duncan Bowie of Canada's McGill University in 11:48. James Gordon Bennett of the New York Herald awarded a $500 cup to the "Canadian pro."

Interest grew and in 1874 Bennett offered five handsome trophies for what he called the "New York Herald Olympic Games." Athletes from Cornell, Yale (two), Princeton, and Wesleyan took honors in the mile, 100, three-mile, hurdles, and seven-mile walk. Famed athletic trainer William Blaikie claimed that a new era had arrived: "the legs, long neglected members, are now to be put to their best . . ." Some 30,000 spectators, including President Grant, later watched the consummately popular rowing regatta. In its shadow was the growing interest in track athletics.

In 1875, the affair featured 10 events and took a full day. The "unleashed thorough-breds" from Cornell, Amherst, Harvard, Union, Yale, Wesleyan, and Williams made for a memorable day. Not all were pleased: Benjamin W. Dwight found the games more appropriate "to barbaric Ashantee life, than to the civilization of Christian America in the nineteenth century."

A convention of college men was held at the Massachusetts House in Springfield, Mass., on Dec. 5, 1875. Its purpose was to form an "Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association." Representatives from Amherst, Columbia, Cornell, Harvard, Princeton, Trinity, Union, Wesleyan, Williams, and Yale selected Yale's G. Creighton Webb as president, Randolph Hurry of Columbia as vice president, George Walton Greene of Harvard as secretary, and Williams College's W.A. Platts as treasurer. The constitution was closely modeled after the Rowing Association and called for an annual track meet to begin in the spring of 1876.

A second meeting, this time at the Fifth Avenue Hotel in New York City on Jan. 5, 1876, convened to decide on events, prizes, location, and funding. Discrepancies arose regarding who was present, but the New York Times of Jan. 6, 1876, reports that 13 schools — Amherst, Cornell, Yale, Columbia, Harvard, Brown, Trinity, Union, Dartmouth, Wesleyan, Williams, Princeton, and CCNY — sent representatives. Undergraduate and graduate events, including the three-legged race, were decided upon and the whole affair was to take place at Saratoga the day following the college regatta.

Thus, the first ICAAAA Outdoor Championships debuted July 20, 1876. Both the New York Times and New York Tribune agreed with meet referee William Blaikie's comment that "while the regatta is undoubtedly on the wane, the athletic games are on the rise." The brand new track at Glen Mitchell, close to Saratoga's Clarendon Hotel, opened with a three-mile walk, won by T. A. Noble of Princeton, the ICAAAA's first champion. Exhaustion and a bad sunburn caused consternation among "the scores of anxious ladies who sent to ask how he was." Noble politely informed them all that he would be ready for the afternoon mile walk.

J.M. Mann, also of Princeton, won the shot with 30-11½, while W.H. Downs of Wesleyan won a slow graduate's mile walk. Yale's W.J. Wakeman took 18¼ seconds to win the 120 high hurdles, an American record. Sophomore R.A. Greene of Princeton ran a pedestrian 2:16.50 in capturing the half-mile. Hugh L. Willoughby gladdened the hearts of a small, enthusiastic friends of Pennsylvania troop, when he won the broad jump with 18-3½. The first organized and rehearsed cheering section shouted: "Hurrah-hurrah-hurray-Pennsyl-va-ni-a." Shortly after Mann of Princeton won the baseball throw (368-6) a "furious and searching" rainstorm resulted in postponement of competition till the next day."

Only five men started the mile walk the ensuing day. Watson of CCNY, his fisherman's cap stuffed with wet leaves, won a close race over the favorite, Noble, in 8:02. Only two entries showed up for the three-mile and they were both from Dartmouth; E.C. Stimson won in a strong 16:21.50. J.W. Pryor of Columbia jumped 5-4, beating Mann's 5-1 — "the reputation of these two having frightened away the other five entries." Stimson doubled back and beat Greene with a 4:58.50 mile. H.W. Stevens of Williams was impressive in winning an 11-second spring and a 56-second "440." Downes ran alone in the graduate mile — a "walk over" for the Wesleyan man. "The interest felt in many of the contests prompted the crowd to invade the course . . . and everything passed off capitally."

For the 27 years between 1877 and 1903, New York City's Mott Haven Field, Manhattan Field, and the Berkeley Oval hosted the IC4A Championship track meet. A miserable track at Saratoga, mismanagement by the local track committee, and the accusation of "unhandsome treatment" to the athletes by Saratoga citizens prompted the meet's movement to New York City.

Harvard University, quiet during the first years of competition, organized its powerful Athletic Association and dominated seven straight meets from 1880 through 1886. The 1885 Harvard Lamppoon crowed a "Song of Triumph" in anticipation of another championship Mott Haven Cup:

Though foot ball may languish and tennis may pine,
Though rowing may weaken
and cricket decline,
We've this thought to make us
bear valiantly up:
We've kept for a lustrum
the Mott Haven Cup.
Hurrah for our athletes,
the banner they bear;
Five firsts and five seconds
what would you have more?
They run well, they jump well,
and ne'er will give up Till they've won for the sixth year
the Mott Haven Cup.

The loose confederation of schools, their track programs essentially controlled by students, and lacking the omnipotence of professional coaches, had its share of giants during the period. H.H. Lee of Pennsylvania won five sprint titles in those very earliest years, while Harvard's Evert Jansen Wendell dominated the 100, 220, and quarter during the early 1880s. He was succeeded by two great sprinters — Wendell Baker of Harvard and Luther H. Carey of Princeton.

Sprinters dominated the era with the likes of Charles H. Sherill of Yale (seven titles, 1887-90), super sprinter B.J. Wefers of Georgetown speeding a 21-1/5-second 220 in 1896, and a 9-4/5-second 100 in 1897. Boston University's T.E. Burke, an Olympic champion, was the quarter-mile winner in 1896 and 1897.

George W. Orton of Pennsylvania was the period's only miler running in the low 4:20s. Myer Prinstein of Syracuse was a 23-8 jumper and two-time winner, but was outdistanced by probably the century's greatest all-arounder, A.C. Kraenzlein of Pennsylvania. He won seven titles and set world records in the broad jump (24-4 1/2), high hurdles (15-2/5 seconds) and the low hurdles (23-3/5 seconds).

The Ivy League athletes continued to dominate the meet through 1920 as the meet enjoyed continued growth. Soldier's Field in Cambridge and Philadelphia's Franklin Field were new sites for the annual spring meet. World War I caused cancellation of the 1917 meet.

In the period of 1921-39 new members from the West Coast enjoyed great success. The University of California-Berkeley, Southern California, and Stanford won 16 team titles during these two decades.

The site continued to alternate between Harvard and Pennsylvania, but an unusual thing happened in 1932. The Eastern establishment traveled to Edwards Stadium at Cal-Berkeley, marking the only time in IC4A history that the meet left the Atlantic coast. The Olympic Games were to be held in Los Angeles and the IC4A meet was one of five qualifying meets. The meet, held later than usual on July 1-2, attracted 260 athletes from 40 colleges, many hoping to remain in sunny California for a crack at the Olympic team.

The years 1940-56 brought about a re-examination and expansion of the IC4A. The growing importance of Pacific Coast track championships, the inordinately long train rides back East, the domination by the California schools, and a tendency for Eastern educators to move back college final exams to the month of May spelled the end of West Coast school involvement in the IC4A Championships.

Cal-Berkeley had two winners at the Randall's Island meet in 1952, but these were the last Californians to compete in the outdoor championships. A re-examination of the meet during the years after World War II (1946-49) and an expansion of participating schools within its own Eastern geographic area marked the period 1950-56. Since this time, the IC4A membership has remained basically an Eastern track consortium with members being added and others dropping out periodically because of financial and/or competitive goals set by the schools.

This list of top performances by ICAAAA athletes was compiled by Walt Murphy of Eastern Track. Division II & III athletes appearing in these rankings may not take part in the meet, since the NCAA Championships for their divisions are being held next week. Notes: Hand times are taken to the first decimal; automatic times are taken to two decimal places.

FAT - Fully-automatic timed. I - Indoor performance.
HT - Hand-timed. W - Wind-aided.
