SIXTIETH ANNUAL TRACK AND FIELD CHAMPIONSHIP MEET.

The Sixtieth Annual I.C.A.A.A.A. Track and Field Championships were held at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, on Friday, May 29, and Saturday, May 30, 1936. Probably none of the championship meets have been conducted under such ideal conditions of weather and probably none have been more smoothly conducted. Each event started on the minute scheduled and there were no untoward incidents. From the financial standpoint, however, the meet was extremely disappointing, due unquestionably to the great number of important sport events scheduled for Philadelphia on Memorial Day.

Probably no meet in recent years provided keener competition or greater uncertainty as to results. Twenty-eight teams scored points and a majority of the events were won by the legendary dark horses, who materialized performances wholly unexpected from them. The championship was won by Cornell, whose last victory was scored in 1919. Until nearly the close of the meet the competition of Harvard made the result uncertain. Nine men from Cornell scored $29\frac{1}{2}$ points in eight events. Harvard, with seven men scoring in eight events, won 19 16/21 points. Dartmouth scored 19 3/7 points, of which three first places accounted for 15 points. Pittsburgh, in fourth place, also scored three first places and a third, for 18 points. Manhattan was fifth with 15 points, 12 of which were scored in the 800-meter run. Pennsylvania was but one point behind and Princeton in seventh place had 13 points.

The victory of Cornell marked the first championship of an Eastern college since the winning by Yale of the 1924 championships.

For the interest of the spectators, and at the request of the Olympic Committee to provide competition for Olympic Team candidates, two special events were held for invited competitors—a 10,000-meter run, and a 1,000-meter run.

The 10,000-meter run was won by an I.C.A.A.A.A. veteran, Edwin C. Veysey of Colby in 32 minutes 12.2 seconds. The race resulted in a stirring finish, in which Veysey won over Stanley Wudyka. Thomas J. Ottey, another I.C.A.A.A.A. veteran from Michigan State, was third, with William J. Smith fourth and Jesse R. Cavileer Jr. of the Margate A.A., fifth.

The 1,000-meter run, which was held after the formal program on Saturday, was a splendid contest. The event was won by Charles Hornbostel, formerly Indiana University headliner, in 2 minutes 14.9 seconds. Harry Williamson, formerly of North Carolina, put up a splendid battle. Ernest Federoff, formerly of Temple, was third, and Frederick Rayson fourth.
