Profile of an IC4A Champion - Cover Story:

KEVIN LYLES, SETON HALL'S KING OF THE QUARTER

By Patrick Dooley, Assistant Sports Information Director, Seton Hall University

You would think that a six-time BIG EAST Champion and a two-time IC4A Champion would be satisfied. Not Kevin Lyles.

Lyles, a junior at Seton Hall University, is one of the top quarter-milers in the country. He has dominated the 400 meter dash in both the BIG EAST and the IC4A meets the last two years, and now he is out to prove that he can dominate on the national level.

The Somerset, New Jersey native comes to Jadwin Gymnasium with some impressive credentials. He is currently the No. 2 ranked quarter-miler in the nation after turning in a time of 46.85 at the Commonwealth Invitational back on January 22 of this year. He placed third at the Millrose Games in the 500, losing to Olympians Mark Everett and Ian Morris by only four hundredths of a second. He was also a member of Seton Hall's distance medley relay team which recently broke the 10-year old American record formerly held by the University of Wisconsin.

It has been a summer of hard work which has elevated Lyles from being one of the better 400 runners in the nation to being one of the best. He points to his progress this past summer when he not only ran for the United States at the Olympic Festival in San Antonio, but he also represented the U.S. in its dual meet with Great Britain and at the World University Games held in Buffalo.

At the Olympic Festival, Lyles, who was running for the East, ran a 44.4 split as the anchor for the 4 x 400 relay team. He calls it the most perfect race he has run to date and a turning point in his progression as a runner.

"At one spot in the race where I usually start to die, I picked it up. It was like I was running again, like I had just started," he said. "That is where my weakness was in the past and that experience has helped me this year."

It is a hard work ethic that has been the trademark of Kevin Lyles since he arrived to the South Orange, New Jersey campus in the fall of 1991, and it has shown in both his athletic and academic achievements.

Interestingly enough, it was Seton Hall's basketball program which first caught his eye. He attended P.J. Carlesimo's basketball camp one summer and fell in love with the school. His initial aspirations saw himself wearing a Seton Hall basketball uniform, not track spikes.

"I thought the reason I would be coming to Seton Hall would be to play basketball," Lyles said.

With his high school track career blossoming and Seton Hall head track coach John Moon knocking at his door, Lyles decided to attend Seton Hall on a track, not a basketball, scholarship. His presence was felt immediately. In his rookie campaign, Lyles made it known to the Eastern track circuit that he was going to be the one to beat in the 400 for the next four years. In the winter he captured the 400 at the BIG EAST and placed second in the IC4A meet. In the spring, he duplicated the feat by once again winning the BIG EAST and placing second at the IC4A's.

Sophomore year was another huge step in Lyles' career.

He swept the indoor and the outdoor 400 at both the BIG EAST and the IC4A Championships. His efforts at the BIG EAST Indoor Championship helped Seton Hall win the team title, its first since 1984. He was also selected as the Most Valuable Performer in the track events at the BIG EAST Outdoor Championships.

Lyles qualified for the 1993 NCAA Championships in the 400 meters in both the indoor and the outdoor seasons. His appearance at the NCAA's was a learning experience.

"The NCAA's last year gave me a look at what everyone else was doing," he said. "All I knew before was names and times. When I got there myself, it gave me the chance to say

'Hey, I'm running just as fast as they are.' They were always on another level to me and when I got a chance to meet them and compete against them, it brought me up to their level. Now I feel more comfortable running against them, and it has given me focus on what my next goals are."

The focus is now locked in on another IC4A Championship. From here it is on to the NCAA Championships in Indianapolis where a 400 meter title is there for the taking.

"This is where I should be. I've been working hard and I've been saying to myself, 'I want to win the NCAA's, I want to win the NCAA's.' All the things I have been doing this year have told me, 'Yes, you can win the NCAA's'"

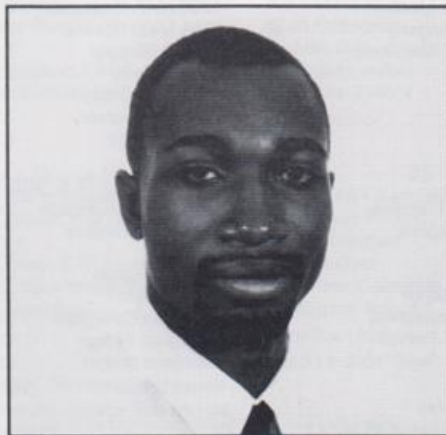

One of the people who believes in Kevin and has believed in him from the start is his coach and friend, John Moon. Moon, who lives just a few blocks from the Lyles family in Somerset, saw a change in Kevin after he returned from Scotland (the site of the U.S.-Great Britain dual meet) in early July. Kevin had embraced running with a fervor that can be found only in world class athletes.

"A coach's dream is to have an athlete that is self motivated," Moon said. "Kevin has that mental attitude. He wants to be good, he's obsessed at being good and he has the motivation to be good. I think in years to come, Kevin is going to be one of the best 400 meter runners in the world. There's no question in my mind. When God made the perfect athlete, he threw away the mold, but I hope he didn't throw Kevin's away because I'm trying to find more like him."

While Moon looks for another superstar, Kevin has had a chance to reflect on his college career, which is still in full swing.

"Coming in to Seton Hall, I wasn't the greatest athlete in the country," Lyles said. "I still had a lot of things to learn. Being part of the Seton Hall track program has helped me progress at a good level. If I would have went to a bigger school, I might have been overwhelmed and maybe lost in the shuffle. Seton Hall was right down my alley, it was exactly what I needed."

Kevin Lyles has been exactly what Seton Hall needed.
