SIXTY-SECOND ANNUAL OUTDOOR TRACK AND FIELD CHAMPIONSHIP MEET, 1938.

A strong delegation of athletes from the University of Southern California invaded Randall's Island Stadium, New York City, on June 3 and 4, 1938, and there captured the team trophy, symbolic of Intercollegiate A.A.A.A. dominance. It was the first visit of the mighty muscle men of the Thundering Herd in three years and, despite a negligible number of first places, the team total swamped the nearest rival, Michigan State, by twenty-one and a half points. The University of Pittsburgh, defending titleholder, finished fourth, behind the University of California.

Records were presaged in fast trials Friday, but Saturday's weather conditions were highly unfavorable, and the fact that three marks were shattered and two matched was a real tribute to the calibre of the fields and the track itself. Nor was the meet without incident. In this case the "incident" deprived the ultimate victors of a first place, and of course an unrequired point, when a review of the finish-line motion pictures disclosed that the 100-yard dash first place had been won by E. Wilbur Greer of Michigan State, and not by Adrian Talley, who had been picked by the judges.

Delos Thurber contributed a record-breaking high jump to give the Southern California team its only undisputed No. 1 spot. Kenneth Dills and Loring Day tied for first in the pole vault, but found that there were two other fellows with whom they had to share the points in a quadruple deadlock.

Though the wearers of the Cardinal and Gold jerseys of Southern California were thereabouts, rather than there, all through the competition, they were in the thereabouts positions with such unbroken frequency that it was not long before it became evident that the team race would be no contest and spectator interest shifted to the individual tests.

Here were provided the many thrills of the sixty-second renewal of the I.C.A.A.A.A. championships. Intermittent rains during a greater part of the afternoon, on a day which could not make its mind up whether it was hot or cold, calm or windy, dampened neither the ardor of the contestants nor the speed in their flashing spikes.

Pitt's John Woodruff, the gangling, loose-legged giant, successfully defended two championships in the quarter-mile and half-mile fields—a feat performed only twice before in all I.C.A.A.A.A. history—by Ted Meredith in 1916 and by W. H. Goodwin Jr., a Harvard superman of the early '80s. Long John equalled his own meet record of 47 seconds for the quarter.

Harvey Woodstra, a double winner in the hurdles events, also equalled a mark, one of long duration, when he stepped over the timbers in the 120 highs in 14.4, the fastest time since Earl Thomson of Dartmouth set the standard for I.C.A.A.A.A. competition in 1920.

But Edgar (Howie) Borek, Manhattan track star who had never before won an Intercollegiate title although he had finished second several times, provided the biggest upset of the day when he ran the legs off the mile field and won in the spectacular time of 4:13.9. His effort erased from the record book the storied mark of John Paul Jones, Cornell's bright particular star of twenty-five years previous. Also, Joseph P. Moclair, a team mate of Borek's, cut down to 9:21.2 the two-mile meet mark while taking that event to give the Jaspers two individual titles.

Photo-finish of 100-yard dash at 1938 Outdoor Track and Field Championships at Randalls Island. Decision of Judges gave victory to Adrian Talley of University of Southern California (fifth lane from pole), but study of motion pictures showed winner to be E. Wilbur Greer of Michigan State (third lane). In third place was Glickman of Syracuse (fourth lane); fourth, Johnson of Columbia (sixth lane); fifth, Nutting of California (second lane); sixth, Anderson of University of Southern California (first lane).

At 1938 Outdoor Meet at Randalls Island, New York, Olympic Champion John Y. Woodruff of Pittsburgh wins half-mile title for second successive year, his time 1 minute 52.5 seconds. Howard Borek of Manhattan is runner-up.

In same meet Woodruff duplicates his quarter-mile victory of 1937, and for second time equals I.C.A.A.A. record for distance, 47 seconds, established by William A. Carr of Pennsylvania in 1932. Erwin Miller of University of Southern California finishes in second place.

Times Wide World

Howie Borck of Manhattan beating Alex Northrop of Harvard in the mile run. The victor's time of 4:13.9 bettered the mark of 4:14.4, made by John Paul Jones of Cornell in 1913.

1—Joseph P. Moclair of Manhattan College winner of 1938 outdoor 2-mile crown. His time of 9 minutes 21.2 seconds, best in I.C.A.A.A. history, removed from record list mark set by James L. Reid of Harvard in 1929. 2—Harvey H. Woodstra of Michigan State, winner of both hurdle races at 1938 outdoor championships, is here seen completing 120-yard event in 14.4 seconds, time equal to record set by Dartmouth's Earl J. Thomson in 1920.
