PERFORMANCE NOTES

1. Our performances went well today! The youth enjoyed being on the big stage at Henrico Theatre.
2. Ellie slipped and fell during the finale in the second performance, but she was not injured and felt fine.

TECHNICAL NOTES

Director

1. None at this time. Thank you!

Music

1. In the first performance, the cast accidentally sang some of the “Egg, Nest, and Tree” lyrics during “Chasing the Whos.” They played it off and sang it correctly during the second performance.
2. Our timing for “Yopp!” has gotten off. We should probably go over this song with the cast tomorrow before the performance.

Choreography

1. None at this time. Thank you!

Scenic/Props/Paint

1. When packing up the props last night, the youth forgot Mayzie’s postcard and the clipboard backstage. As a result, we decided not to use these props in the first performance today. The clipboard was used in the second performance, but the postcard got left at SPARC so it was not used at all today.
2. During the second performance, the Whoville flat came on the wrong way for “Here on Who” so we saw the Mayor’s house side. As a result, “Meet JoJo the Who” was played early so Mr. and Mrs. Mayor did not turn the flat to the incorrect side for “It’s Possible.”
3. One of the feathers from the Bird Girls’ feather fan fell out during “How Lucky You Are.”
4. Due to the nature of our packing, we think it would be best if we used the pillberry bush by itself instead of on the tray. Could we get your thoughts on this?

Costumes

1. Some of the fabric on Alexa G. (Gertrude)’s skirt came apart during the first show. Laine fixed it in between shows.

Sound

1. We did not pack the Sound equipment because Henrico Theatre already had an in-house system we were able to use. We did bring the microphone windscreens for tracking purposes.

2. Please see Scenic/Props/Paint Note #2.
3. Eve W. (JoJo) dropped the SR microphone down a couple of steps during “Solla Sollew.” The microphone was fine and continued to work throughout the performance.
4. “Amazing Horton” was played early due to Juliet making a mistake :(

Production Management
