

AI Tutors – Leaders of Leaders

Candidates enrolled in the BSB60420 Advanced Diploma of Leadership and Management can use AI tools like ChatGPT, Claude or Grok as an AI Tutor in three highly effective and targeted ways, tailored to the advanced level of this qualification. The third idea draws on a strategy used by elite leadership trainers.

1. Advanced Concept Mastery and Critical Thinking Drills

AI Tools like ChatGPT, Claude and Grok can deliver in-depth explanations of advanced leadership topics such as change management, innovation, critical thinking and complex problem-solving. Candidates can request detailed breakdowns, ask for real-world examples, and engage in Socratic questioning to sharpen their critical thinking and decision-making skills—key requirements for advanced leadership roles.

2. Strategic Evidence Development for RPL (Recognition of Prior Learning)

At this level, students can use AI Tools to craft sophisticated evidence portfolios for RPL by mapping high-level workplace achievements to the specific advanced competencies of the diploma. ChatGPT can assist in writing strategic business plans, reflective statements on leading organisational change, and documentation of innovation initiatives, ensuring that evidence is robust, targeted, and aligned with assessment criteria.

3. Elite Strategy: Simulated Executive Advisory Board Sessions

Borrowing from the practices of top-tier leadership developers, students can use AI Tools like ChatGPT, Claude & Grok to simulate participation in an executive advisory board. ChatGPT and others can role-play as C-suite executives, board members, or external consultants, presenting students with multifaceted, ambiguous business dilemmas that require cross-functional leadership, negotiation, and persuasive communication. RPL Candidates can practice defending business strategies, responding to board-level scrutiny, and adapting to high-stakes, rapidly changing scenarios which is an experience typically reserved for senior leaders and rarely accessible in standard coursework or leadership development programs.

By focusing on these three advanced strategies, students will not only reinforce and apply their learning but also develop the executive-level capabilities and evidence required to excel in the BSB60420 Advanced Diploma of Leadership and Management. This approach ensures both academic and practical leadership excellence.
