

TERRORISM AND HOW TO SPOT A TERRORIST BEFORE IT'S TOO LATE

John Iannarelli, FBI Special Agent (Ret.)

OVERVIEW

In his informative and entertaining keynote presentation, Terrorism and How to Spot a Terrorist Before It's Too Late, John Iannarelli engages his audiences with scenarios that raise their situational awareness.

Participants will hear behind the scenes FBI stories, not discussed with the public, detailing some of the most infamous acts of terrorism that have impacted the United States, to include the Oklahoma City bombing, 9/11 and the Orlando Airport shooting, and many of the latest attacks. Likewise, the audience will also learn of attempted attacks that the public never knew happened.

John shares how individuals can help law enforcement prevent the next terrorist attack by noticing a few simple indicators to identify someone who might be planning an act of terrorism. Although this topic is extremely serious, John brings a light heartedness to it with his humorous and personal style.

OUTCOMES

Audiences who experience this 60-90 minute keynote will:

- > know what it takes to protect themselves and their families if they are amid a terrorist or active shooter event,
- > be able to spot a terrorism planning event before it is too late,
- > learn how to avoid key mistakes during such an event that often cause victims to be harmed,
- > understand three simple concepts that give individuals the ability to react and stay safe instead of being a victim, and
- > develop situational awareness decision making skills that enables them to make choices in advance that will dictate their outcome before anything even happens.

This presentation references Iannarelli's book, How to Spot A Terrorist; Before It Is Too Late.

ABOUT JOHN IANNARELLI

John Iannarelli retired from the FBI after more than 20 years of service, during which time he was a member of the FBI SWAT Team and participated in the investigations of the Oklahoma City bombing, the 9/11 attack, the shooting of Congresswoman Gabrielle Giffords and the Sony hack. Among his many FBI assignments, John previously served in Washington, D.C. as the FBI National Spokesperson. During his FBI tenure, John was the recipient of the FBI Director's Distinguished Service Award, for which he was selected from the ranks of the Bureau's 35,000 employees.

A former San Diego Police Officer and a graduate of the University of San Diego School of Law and international studies at Oxford, England, John is also an attorney admitted to the practice of law in California, Maryland and the District of Columbia. In addition, John is the recipient of an Honorary Doctor of Computer Science in recognition of his contributions to the field of cyber investigations.

An energetic and entertaining speaker, John is the author of four books, including How to Spot A Terrorist Before It's Too Late, a guide to help people recognize and prevent terrorism before it can occur. His soon to be released fifth book, Disorderly Conduct, examines the lighter side of law enforcement and the humorous moments during John's FBI career.

John is a frequently on-air contributor for the Fox News Channel and other national media, to include having provided live on-scene coverage from Las Vegas of the Mandalay Bay shooting as it occurred. John is now a highly sought-after keynote speaker, known for sharing his intriguing insights combined with his sense of humor. He has presented to numerous Fortune 500 companies, domestic and international audiences, the United Nations, and the Vatican, where he has personally met on several occasions with Pope Francis.
