

Paul,

Monday

Just so you know it never was a game. Something about the phrase "Death Penalty" takes all the laughs right out of a person. Thing is... I've read all the statements. You told me they didn't like your answers. I would say they liked them very much. Sounded like they feed you each word that came from your mouth.

Callow-Denver Triggs was a great plan. Set me up from day one. That's how it feels. They also say you admitted to a bunch of shit. How stupid are you? Driving around with them had to be a "great" move on your part if your trying to pin a bunch of shit on me.

So my lawyers tell me these letters can only be used to try to fuck me over! So I'm not playing. Sorry about your indictment. You knew it would be comen. Even if you play their game they aren't your friends. Not even Triggs!

I can't take any chances. I haven't spoke to anyone! I haven't made any statements! I'm not going to set in prison for the rest of my life or better yet die for some shit I didn't do!

Guess we will see each other in Court!

Sorry Love,

Kara
