

Happy Monday!

Welcome to the 46th issue of CSW.

In this issue:

Trojanized Super Mario Bros Spread Malware

Military Satellite Access Sold

Police Seize Hacking Site BreachForums

And much more...

Trojanized Super Mario Bros Spread Malware

Cyble Research and Intelligence Labs discovered a trojanized Super Mario Bros game installer for Windows that delivered multiple malware, including an XMR miner, SupremeBot mining client, and Open-source Umbral stealer. The malware targeted gamers, who often use powerful hardware for gaming, which is ideal for mining cryptocurrencies.

To read the full story...

Click Here

What do you call 8 hobbits?

A hobbyte.

Military Satellite Access Sold

A Russian hacker has advertised access to a military satellite operated by Maxar Technologies for $15,000. The hacker claims the buyer could gain sensitive information about US military and strategic positioning. Unauthorized access to military satellites could compromise national security and pose a serious threat.

To read the full story...

Click Here

Video: Using AI to Stop DDoS Attacks

Watch Here

Police Seize Hacking Site BreachForums

U.S. federal authorities have seized the domain of BreachForums, a notorious hacking site. The site was once the go-to community for English-speaking cybercriminals sharing personal data stolen from various websites and companies. The new administrator, "Baphomet," relaunched the forum on a new domain, teaming up with another hacker group, ShinyHunters.

To read the full story...

Click Here

Quick Links

Hacker Responsible for Twitter Breach Sent to Prison

Click Here

LastPass Users Furious After Being Locked Out

Click Here

Microsoft Teams Bug Allows Malware Delivery

Click Here

This email was sent to {{contact.EMAIL}}
You've received it because you've subscribed to our newsletter.

View in browser | Unsubscribe

