Spring update reveals strengths and a few questions. We base the following on review of EVC's 2021 10-K, and our regular valuation update, where the puts offset the takes to leave our PT unchanged.

No change to PT, as boost from lower estimate of earn-out liabilities is offset by higher interest rates inflating our weighted average cost of capital estimates. We reduce the earn-out estimates in our valuation to match the 12/31/21 carrying values in the 10-K, $115m in total, which is ~$15m lower than our current bottoms-up estimate. Rising rates on 10-year U.S. Treasuries have pushed up the risk-free rate used in our discounted cash flow (DCF) analysis, although this is partially offset by a reduction in the equity risk premium reflecting March data.

Meta partnership in Latin America is the lynchpin of EVC's media representation business. Per the 10-K, revenue generated with Meta accounted for ~75% of EVC's 2021 digital segment revenue (55% of total). Moreover, through Cisneros Interactive, EVC is Meta's only authorized commercial partner in Latin America, the region that by our estimates accounts for over 80% of EVC's digital segment revenue. One advantage of this positioning is that it leaves EVC's digital business with essentially no exposure to Europe, where the Russia-Ukraine conflict roars on. Another bonus is that iOS, whose Apple-mandated data policies prove problematical for Meta's advertising business, accounts for only 12% of mobile operating systems used in South America.

A few issues for management. Among other things, market turbulence scuttled digital media reprival Aleph Group's planned 1Q IPO, although it has also pushed EVC's shares down closer to their 52-week low than high. Investors could take time with management to satisfy themselves that EVC's story of transformation to international digital growth from U.S. broadcast free cash flow stability remains on track. Some specifics include:

- * Why was there a reduction during 4Q in the earn-out liability for the MediaDonuts acquisition, which is now below our bottoms-up earn-out estimate based on our MediaDonuts forecast?
- * Per the 10-K, MediaDonuts is the non-exclusive partner of TikTok in six Asian countries—how does the lack of exclusivity affect the economics and growth outlook for MediaDonuts?
- * Are there any updates for or takeaways from plans by LinkedIn (a small contributor to EVC's digital revenue, we believe) to take its ad sales in-house this year?
- * Does EVC see any lines of business adjacent to its current digital operations as potentially attractive, either to pursue organically or through acquisitions?

Reaffirm $8.50 price target; risks on page 2. Our PT is supported by a DCF valuation based on explicit financial forecasts through 2027.

Investment Thesis and Valuation: Buy With $8.50 Price Target

Positives supporting our Buy rating include: 1) EVC's share price is not fully capturing the potential of digital media acquisitions in 2020-21 because their higher growth and different business models are more difficult for investors to assess; 2) EVC's lower post-pandemic expense base looks sustainable; 3) apart from the industry-wide pressure on auto advertising because of supply shortages, and any transitional risks introduced by measures to mitigate Covid-19 variants, operating risk at the core U.S. media business should be ebbing based on the cyclical rebound in the U.S. Hispanic economy and secular growth of political advertising; 4) relative stability of net retransmission fee revenue (42% of 2021 EBITDA) and pro forma net debt leverage under 3x enhance management's longer-term options; and 5) our DCF valuation supports substantial stock price upside over the next 12 months.

Our DCF-based 12-month price target is a weighted average of projected equity valuations at year-end 2022 and 2023. First, we adjust the current net debt with the estimated free cash flow to be generated by each valuation date. Second, we adjust the current net debt for any estimated payments remaining on the acquisitions (e.g., earnouts), which are currently scheduled to occur from early 2022 to 2025. Finally, we value EVC both using a weighted average cost of capital (WACC) reflecting its own stock price trading and using separate WACCs for its broadcast and digital media businesses based on sector comparables, applied to separate free cash flow forecasts for each of these businesses. The results of these two methods set the range for our valuation, with the EVC-specific method incorporating market data on EVC shares' actual volatility setting the upper bound, and the sector method relying on measures of risk of comparables setting the lower bound. Note that in our DCF, for our terminal value estimates, we assume that capex equals D&A, which results in a substantially higher capex estimate than in our financial statement forecasts because capex should be like D&A for a terminal value forecast, to support the need for an asset base in perpetuity.

Risks to our investment thesis include: 1) sensitivity of EVC's advertising-based businesses to macroeconomic shocks, 2) potential volatility of EVC's digital media business, given its increasing focus on emerging markets, its dependence on a small number of commercial relationships with media tech platforms, and increasing competition, 3) secular challenges and potentially increasing competition from TelevisaUnivision for EVC's broadcast media business, 4) potential barriers to sale of all or a portion of the company, and 5) risk of regression to mean in share price performance given shares' substantial appreciation relative to the overall market and sector peers over the past year.
