The Paracas National Reserve is full of fauna, there are all kinds of birds, seals, penguins, whales and other critters, like snakes. The route is about 23 km (14 miles) and will take you about 4 hours to get through, depending on how long you stop in the individual spots. This is what you will see:

The first stop is the interpretation center and museum.

La Catedral is a 40-million-year-old rock and the symbol of Paracas. The next stop is more views, this time from the Paracas Isthmus (Mirador Istmo II). Playa Roja (meaning "Red Beach"), as you might've guessed, has sand that is a deep red color.

Last but certainly not least, Peru's most beautiful beach—La Mina.
