Favorites from the '90s

The cover of the magazine "VEDONA Journal of EMERGENCE!" features a central illustration of a deity, likely Lord Venkateswara, seated on a lotus. The deity is adorned with a pink crown and jewelry, and is surrounded by a pink lotus base. The background of the illustration is a warm, golden-brown color. Above the illustration, the title "VEDONA" is prominently displayed in a large, stylized font, with "Journal of EMERGENCE!" written below it. The tagline "Place to Be, Home to Grow With" is also visible. The cover includes several columns of text, including article titles and author names, such as "The Sacredness of the Sacred" by David R. Brown and "The Sacredness of the Sacred" by David R. Brown. The overall design is vibrant and spiritual, reflecting the magazine's focus on the Bhakti tradition.

A vintage movie poster for the film "My Runaway Marriage". The poster features a close-up of a man and a woman. The man, on the left, is wearing a red hat and a dark jacket, looking down at the woman. The woman, on the right, is wearing a red dress and looking up at the man. The background is dark and textured. The text on the poster includes "THEY DIDN'T TRUST ME... & Love-My-Neighbor" at the top, "Real Romance" in large red letters, "ADULTERESS" in bold black letters, and "MY RUNAWAY MARRIAGE" in large black letters at the bottom.
