

Halloween night, 1998...

A live broadcast from a haunted house in Belfast.

- So disturbing it hasn't been seen in 25 years.

HAUNTED ULSTER LIVE

REVIEWS

'Genuine shocks and an impressive, creepy conclusion.'

Martin Unsworth, Starburst

'I was on the absolute edge of my seat...crafts its own unique haunted house mythology'

JP Nunez, Horror Obsessive

'Earns a deserved place in the recent boom of Irish horror, delivering a compelling conclusion that...will leave audiences questioning the unknown.'

Ygraine Hackett, Moving Pictures Film Club

'A loving homage to one of the greatest moments of television, Haunted Ulster Live is sure to win over fans of Ghostwatch.'

Kat Hughes, Hollywood News

'It has a Nigel Kneale-like attitude to what ghosts might actually be, though it takes the trouble to build an air of menace in the house – where, from the first, we get a sense that putting this psychodrama on television to share with the viewers at home is a very bad idea.'

Kim Newman Kim Newman Website

'I flipping loved it... one of my favourite films of the year so far.'

Paul Waller, A Year in Horror Podcast
