Project Management. Business Improvement. Cultural Change.

Bridging the gap between boardroom strategy and site reality.

WHO WE ARE

Beyond Lip Service.

"The 'human side' of construction services determines your margin."

Constructing Culture Ltd was founded by Andy Pritchard MCIQB to challenge the construction industry's reliance on tick-box initiatives and hollow transformation programmes.

Our founder has led pioneering teams within major UK contractors, trialling hundreds of products, systems, tools, and behaviours. We bring that hard-won experience directly to your business.

From major contractors to ambitious tier two's, we make a positive, lasting impact.

HOW WE WORK

Our Approach

01

Diagnose

We get beneath the surface. Through site visits, team engagement, and data analysis, we identify real root causes; not symptoms presenting in the boardroom.

02

Design

Every solution is tailored. We work collaboratively with your people to design changes that fit your market, contracts, and ambitions; not off-the-shelf methodology.

03

Deliver

We embed alongside your team to drive adoption and pace. We build the internal confidence needed to sustain progress long after our engagement ends.

What Sets Us Apart

Sector-Deep Experience

Our founder has held senior roles within major UK contractors. We understand the pressures of programme, margin, and supply chain relationships from the inside; not from the outside looking in.

Proven Recovery Capability

We have led complex project recoveries in live construction environments; resetting teams, stripping delays, and restoring client confidence without compromising safety or quality.

Technology Without the Hype

We've trialled hundreds of construction tech tools. We recommend only what works in practice, support implementation, and ensure adoption, not just purchase.

We Leave You Empowered

Our measure of success is your independence. We build capability within your teams so that progress is sustained long after our engagement ends.
