PLYMOUTH VILLAGE HISTORY

50 YEARS OF MEMORIES WORTH RECORDING

Did you know that Ryan Homes began building the houses of Plymouth Village in the early 1970s on land that, according to the Hudson Heritage Foundation, previously belonged to the farm owned by Gaylord Bishop. Mr. Bishop was a descendant of Hudson pioneers Samuel Bishop and Joel Gaylord. Another section of the farm had already been developed into Olde Town Colony.

Are you the original owner of a Plymouth Village home? Let's meet to record your memories of your home and our neighborhood! I am also seeking any old photos or blueprints to add to the "At Home in Plymouth Village Website."
