Good morning The Gove family,

Praying that everyone is doing well this morning.

I hope you enjoyed the series that we went through this past summer. I know I have generally done single month sets but I do like having longer runs from time to time to really dig into whatever I feel God is calling us to go through. The Life You've Always Wanted is one that I thought really deserved the time of the summer to go through and I pray that you have many things to take with you on your journey with Christ.

As we begin to enter the fall season we going to enter two books of the Bible. This coming month, September, we will be going through the book of Daniel.

In October, we will be going through the book of Revelation. The reason I mention October already is because, though these series' will be separated, they will have connections.

I am excited about the journey we are about to go on together!

In Him,

Jordan Kattine

P.S. don't forget that parking lot pickle ball was moved to Sept. 7th. Thanks!
