

Deb Warner, Artist

Pearce, AZ

StrongholdArtbyDeb@gmail.com

Mediums: Acrylic, Graphite, Watercolor, Resin

My work is an amalgam of art influences with undeniable passion for color, movement, texture, flow, and unique technical influences. My pieces are gestural emerging from boundaries between abstraction, impressionistic, fauvism, representationalism, and realism. I stretch the visualizations and perceptions of shapes for the meaning and narrative truths. Application of the medium is used with many tools for blending, to create a very physical process, resulting in a bold piece that captivates a range of colors, textures, color palette, and distinctive styling. I've never been one to "follow the rules in my creativity". So, I've created a few of my own in my artistic life, while trying to be true to my own self and feelings. I don't limit myself in any part of my art creations. I don't stick to just one style, one color palate or one size. Everything in my artist bag is my own truth, for the piece I'm working on at the time. In essence, that keeps me happy and up each morning to create!

I've been painting, showing in galleries throughout southeastern AZ, while learning more and more over the years, since my retirement as a Registered Nurse. Honing and sharing my skills as a lover of art has been a long-time passion since my youth. My local Southwestern impressionistic styling as well as my southeastern AZ home has been the major influence of my art's styling and color palette. I favor abstracts because of the freedoms of creativity. I most enjoy impressionistic for the same reasons. Art is my passion in my retirement. It keeps me young!

