

Deb Warner, Artist

Pearce, AZ

StrongholdArtbyDeb@gmail.com

Mediums: Acrylic, Graphite, Watercolor, Resin

My work is an amalgam of art influences with undeniable passion for color, movement, texture, flow, and unique technical influences.

My art is gesture emerging from boundaries between abstraction, expressionism, impressionistic, fauvism, representationalism, with an occasional realism. I stretch the visualizations and perceptions of shapes for the meaning and narrative truths. Application of the medium is used with many tools for blending, to create a very physical process, resulting in a bold piece that captivates a range of colors, textures, color palette, and distinctive styling. I've never been one to "follow the rules in my creativity". So, I've created a few of my own in my artistic life, while trying to be true to my own self and feelings. I don't limit myself in any part of my art creations. I don't stick to just one style, one color palate or one size. Everything in my artist bag is my own truth, for the piece I'm working on at the time. In essence, that keeps me happy and up each morning to create!

I've been painting and showing in galleries throughout southeastern AZ, during my decades of living in AZ., since my retirement as a Registered Nurse. Honing and sharing my skills as a lover of art has been a long-time passion since my youth. My local Southwestern expressionistic styling & color palate comes from the influences of my AZ location and exposure to the AZ landscapes. I favor abstracts & expressionism because of the freedoms of creativity color, texture and movement. If you are ever wondering if it's a "Deb Warner piece"... follow my color palate. It's usually the same favorite colors!
