Arts

October 20

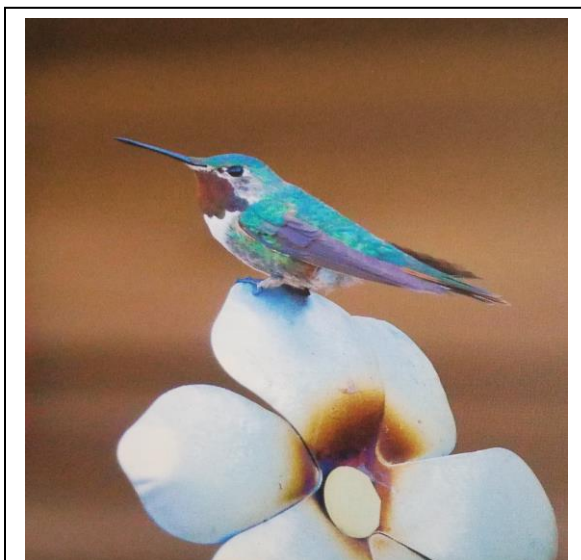

Hello Art Friends, I want to congratulate everyone that is participating in the annual SPRAC photography show and sale at Cochise College in Benson. Please attend the show reception on Saturday October 14th 1pm to 3pm. Come celebrate all of the ribbon recipients and enjoy refreshments, music and an opportunity to win some prizes. You can also sign up for our silent auction fundraiser at the show.

As we head into the holiday season, communities across the region are holding craft and art shows, bazars, and festivals. Plenty of opportunities for sales and holiday shopping so support all of our local artisans by shopping local and handmade.

A Full list of happenings for art in our community is on our events page, so mark your calendars!

The next Endeavor change out is the first weekend in November.

Keep Creating!

Artist of the Season

Kathy Williams

Kathy is an inspiration for experienced artists and those who are just starting the journey of creativity.

She is the head of the St. Jude Scholarship fund that gives first generation college students the opportunity to achieve their dreams. Kathy is able to raise money for her organization by offering No Fear Painting Workshops at the VFW on Sunday afternoons in Benson.

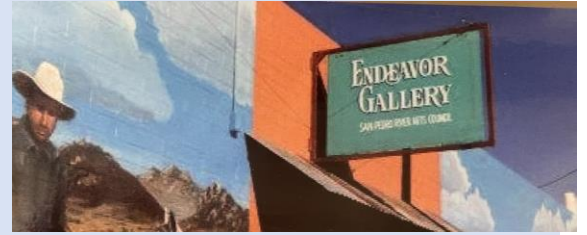

Many of her artists on Sundays have reached a level of success in painting. They are now winning ribbons at local art shows and have a following of collectors.

Kathy's own paintings are full of bright color and texture. We Celebrate Kathy and her winning ways of instruction and encouragement. Thank you Kathy !

Silversmithing and the lost wax mystery will be the focus of the presentation.

Have you ever wondered how fine jewelry is made, what is it made of and what determines its value? Kaayla will introduce you to some of the methods, techniques, materials, and tools used by Artisan jewelers and bench jewelers with a focus on lost wax casting. She will have on hand samples of models and finished work as well as a visual presentation. Participants are encouraged to bring pieces of their own jewelry to examine and share.
