Massoud Alibakhsh

CEO AT XEBA TECHNOLOGIES

📍Atlanta, GA AI Tech Entrepreneur

Massoud is a tech entrepreneur with a background in Electrical Engineering and Computer Science. He's currently leading the task of creating the next revolution in human and machine communication at Xeba Technologies.

From 2000 to 2018 Massoud was founder, CEO and chief architect for one of the first cloud-based Medical Practice Management and Electronic Health Record Systems marketed under the NueMD brand. NueMD was a small offshoot startup which survived the dot com era and grew from a handful of talents to over 250 employees when it was acquired in 2018. Today it is part of Global Payment Network, a fortune 500 company.

Challenges of Integrating ChatGPT with Software Applications and Solving it with Object Messaging Model as a New Design Paradigm

"The proliferation of AI tools, such as ChatGPT and other Large Language Models (LLMs), has raised expectations regarding their widespread adoption in the workplace. However, this paper delves into the limitations that hinder the deep integration of LLMs with existing software applications used in business environments. While LLMs excel in processing natural language, conventional software applications mostly communicate structured information in a rigid fashion."

Measuring, Optimizing and Improving Collective Intelligence & Group Performance Using Artificial Intelligence

"By examining a trained Neural Net for a given task, we can conclude that intelligence is coded in connections between the nodes. By way of analogy, an organization made up of humans organized to accomplish a defined task can succeed gloriously or fail miserably. What is the role of connectivity using various models and modes of communications systems amongst humans at work?"

System and Methods for Optimal and Synchronized Workflow Based Communication

"A system and method which allows everyone in an organization such as a team made up of executives, managers, project managers, production resources, and all other stakeholders to communicate in a synchronized, optimal and harmonious way in order to complete projects with a high level of transparency into the production line. This invention is based on an innovative paradigm shift in human communication within organizations that function based on workflows or modern production cycles."

End of email and Channel Chatter and a harmonious merger of AI with humans at work

"Email and Social Channel models of communication promised to revolutionize and simplify communication at work. Instead, they have created a sense of enslavement and overwhelmed us with noisy and unrelated distractions.

This talk introduces a new and elegant paradigm for human communication at work. One that guarantees optimality in that you will never receive a message that isn't relevant to you. It also presents a framework for a harmonious merging of AI with people in the workplace to aid us in every aspect of our work in pleasantly surprising ways!"
