I am currently a costume design graduate at London College of Fashion aiming to work within the best fields of the UK's film, TV and theatre industry. My biggest strength is finding creative solutions with given materials and time, which is essential to be able to realise my designs. Therefore, I am able to work very well under pressure and within a given budget, as well as in a busy environment. I pride myself in always trying to achieve the highest possible standard with my work. I thrive in unexpected situations being able to compromise and act quickly and I see myself as an ambitious young professional.
