The St Augustine Community Chorus has been singing since 1948. The Chorus is a non-auditioned ensemble of regional singers with varying musical backgrounds who love share good music with their audiences. The group presents three concerts a year: a Christmas program, Pops in March, and a Masterworks program in May.

Michael Sanflippo began his tenure as director of SACC in 2015. Mike is also Director of Music at St. Augustine's Grace United Methodist Church as well as an Adjunct Instructor at Florida School of the Arts. Previously in New Jersey, he directed the Apprentice Chorus of the Newark Boys Chorus School, Concord Singers (Summit, NJ, a women's chorus) and Harmony Singers (Wayne, NJ, a mixed ensemble) and the music program at Community United Methodist Church (Roselle Park). Mike holds degrees from Philadelphia College of Performing Arts and Teachers College of Columbia University. Mr. Sanflippo studied choral conducting for a year at the Kodály Pedagogical Institute in Kecskemet, Hungary.

Founded in 2013, Voices Rising Community Chorus is an intentionally intergenerational community chorus of nearly 130 voices in Gainesville, open to adults, to youth age eight, and up. In 2018, the chorus was recognized nationally for its creative work in bringing together multiple generations, receiving 1st place in the video category of the Kraemer Intergenerational Story Contest. The chorus sings a wide variety of sacred and secular music and presents benefit concerts for local charities in the Gainesville area, often focusing on small non-profit organizations serving local children and families.

Ruth Lewis holds a Master of Fine Arts degree in organ performance from the University of Florida. She has maintained a private piano teaching studio in Gainesville for over 40 years and performs in the Gainesville area as pianist, organist, harpsichordist, chamber musician, and choral director.

The Fort Walton Beach Community Chorus is in its 45th season and provides quality music through bi-annual concerts, community performances, and military engagements. Over the past 30 years, the chorus has awarded over $32,000 in scholarships to local graduating seniors who will continue in music in college. The Chorus sang in Carnegie Hall in 2016. In 2018, the ensemble traveled to the United Kingdom where they performed throughout Ireland and Wales. In November, they will once again travel to New York City to perform Messiah: Refreshed for the ten-year anniversary of singing this work on every Thanksgiving. A group of volunteers, this chorus is truly a community chorus.

Katie McGuire Menges became director of the Fort Walton Beach Community Chorus s five years ago after singing with them for two seasons. She teaches elementary music and middle school chorus. Ms. Menges also plays the trumpet in her church and in a local symphony. A member of the military, she has served her country for 17 years. Mrs. Menges and her husband, Mike, live in Shalimar with their dogs Rocket and Chloe.

Calm Sea

Deep stillness reigns on the water

the sea rests motionless

and the sailor anxiously watches

the flat surface around him.

No wind from any direction!

All is deathly still, frightening!

In the vast open spaces no wave stirs.

Successful Voyage

The mist clears, the sky brightens and Aeolus loosens the fearful bonds.

The wind whispers, the sailor stirs.

Hurry! Hurry!

The waves part, the distance draws nearer;

I can see land already!

The Seal Lullaby

Eric Whitacre

Harry Belafonte/Arr. Mark Hayes

The Gainesville Master Chorale is the premiere choral ensemble of the Gainesville area, whose performances frequently feature world class soloists' and orchestral musicians performing choral masterworks. The Gainesville Master Chorale began its existence in 1976 and has continued to bring excellent choral music to the Gainesville community ever since. This group has gained recognition by both the City Commission and the Alachua County Commission as the community's official chorus. Among the members are retired citizens, business persons, university professors, professional musicians and others from many walks of life.

For the past seventeen years Dr. Will Kesling has served as the Director of Choral Activities at the University of Florida as well as the Director of the Gainesville Master Chorale and Orchestra. Over the past forty-two years, his college choirs have received international attention. He has recently been featured as a guest conductor in China, Ecuador, Israel, and Colombia.
