HOLLYWOOD WALK OF FAME

Marlee Beth Matlin (born August 24, 1965) is an American actress, author, and deaf activist. For playing Sarah Norman in the romantic drama film Children of a Lesser God (1986), she won the Academy Award and Golden Globe Award for Best Actress, becoming the only deaf performer to have won an Academy Award as well as the youngest Best Actress winner.

Matlin's work in film and television has resulted in a Golden Globe award, with two additional nominations, and four Emmy nominations. Deaf since she was 18 months old, due to illness and high fevers, she is also a prominent member of the National Association of the Deaf. Her longtime interpreter is Jack Jason.

Matlin was born in Morton Grove, Illinois, to Libby (née Hammer) and Donald Matlin, who was an automobile dealer.

She lost all hearing in her right ear and 80% of the hearing in her left ear at the age of 18 months due to illness and fevers. In her autobiography I'll Scream Later, she suggests that her hearing loss may have been due to a genetically malformed cochlea. She is the only member of her family who is deaf. She and her two older brothers, Eric and Marc, grew up in a Reform Jewish household. Her family roots are in Poland and Russia. Matlin attended a synagogue for the Deaf (Congregation Bene Shalom), and after studying Hebrew phonetically, was able to learn her Torah portion for her Bat Mitzvah. She was later interviewed for the book Mazel Tov: Celebrities' Bar and Bat Mitzvah Memories.

Matlin graduated from John Hersey High School in Arlington Heights and attended made her stage debut at the age of seven, as Dorothy in an International Center on Deafness and the Arts (ICODA) children's theatre of The Wizard of Oz, and continued to appear with the ICODEA children's theatre group throughout her childhood. At the age of thirteen, she won second prize in the Chicago Center's Annual International Creative Arts Festival for an essay titled, "If I Was not a Movie Star."

Her discovery by Henry Winkler during one of her ICODEA theater performances ultimately led to her film debut in Children of a Lesser God (1986). The film received generally positive reviews and Matlin's performance as Sarah Norman, a reluctant-to-speak deaf woman who falls for a hearing man, drew high praise: Richard Schickel of TIME magazine wrote, "Matlin has an unusual talent for concentrating her emotions -- and an audience's -- in her signing. But there is something more here, an ironic intelligence, a fierce but not distancing wit, that the movies, with their famous ability to photograph thought, discover in very few performances." Roger Ebert of the Chicago Sun-Times was also impressed with Matlin, writing, "She holds her own against the powerhouse she's acting with, carrying scenes with a passion and almost painful fear of being rejected and hurt, which is really what her rebellion is about," and Paul Attanasio of the Washington Post said, "The most obvious challenge of the role is to communicate without speaking, but Matlin rises to it in the same way the stars of the silent era did -- she acts with her eyes, her gestures." Children of a Lesser God brought her a Golden Globe Award for Best Actress in a Drama and an Academy Award for Best Actress. Only 21 years old at the time, Matlin remains the youngest actress to receive the Oscar in the Best Actress category; she is still the only deaf Academy Award recipient in any category.

Two years later, she made a guest appearance on Sesame Street with Billy Joel performing a revised version of "Just the Way You Are" with lyrics by Tony Geiss. Matlin used sign language during the song and hugged Oscar the Grouch during the song's conclusion. One year after that, Billy Joel invited her to perform in his video for "We Didn't Start the Fire".

In 1989, Matlin portrayed a deaf widow in the television movie Bridge to Silence. In that role, she spoke in addition to using sign language. People magazine did not like the film, but praised Matlin's work, writing, "the beautiful, emotionally moving Matlin is too good for this well-intentioned but sentimental slop." She was nominated for a Golden Globe for her work as the lead female role in the television series Reasonable Doubts (1991–1993). Matlin was nominated for an Emmy Award for a guest appearance in Picket Fences (1992) and became a regular on that series during its final season (1996). She played Carrie Buck in the 1994 television drama Against Her Will: The Carrie Buck Story, based on the 1927 United States Supreme Court case Buck v. Bell 274 U.S. 200. In that role, Matlin portrayed a hearing woman for the first time in her career, which earned her a CableACE nomination for Best Actress. She had a prominent supporting role in the drama It's My Party (1996).

Matlin later had recurring roles in The West Wing, and Blue's Clues. Other television appearances include Seinfeld ("The Lip Reader"), The Outer Limits ("The Message"), ER, The Practice, and Law & Order: Special Victims Unit. She was nominated for Primetime Emmy Awards for her guest appearances in Seinfeld, Law & Order: Special Victims Unit, and The Practice.

October 2007. In 2004, she starred in the movie What the Bleep Do We Know!? as Amanda. Also in 2003, she hosted the 3rd Annual Festival for Cinema of the Deaf in Chicago.

In 2006, she played a deaf parent in Desperate Housewives. She had a recurring role in My Name Is Earl as public defender for Joy Turner (who made many jokes about Matlin's deafness at Matlin's expense), and played the mother of one of the victims in an episode of CSI: NY. That same year, Matlin was cast in season 4 of The L Word as Jodi Lerner, a lesbian sculptor. She appeared in season 4 (2007), season 5 (2008), and season 6 (2009) as the girlfriend of one of the show's protagonists, Bette Porter, played by Jennifer Beals.

On February 4, 2007, and February 7, 2016, Matlin interpreted the "Star Spangled Banner" in American Sign Language at Super Bowl XLI in Miami, Florida, and at Super Bowl 50 in Santa Clara, California, respectively. In January 2008, she appeared on Nip/Tuck as a television executive.

In 2008, Matlin participated as a competitor in the sixth season of ABC's Dancing with the Stars. Her dance partner was newcomer Fabian Sanchez. Matlin and Sanchez were the sixth couple eliminated from the competition.

On May 6, 2009, Matlin received a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

On November 8, 2009, Matlin appeared on Seth & Alex's Almost Live Comedy Show, hosted by Seth MacFarlane and Alex Borstein. After Borstein imitated Matlin calling MovieFone and singing "Poker Face," Matlin herself appeared and launched into a comical tirade against Borstein over being made fun of, and how she was not invited to provide her own voice for Family Guy. Matlin went on to voice Stella, Peter Griffin's coworker, in the Season 10 episode "The Blind Side;" Stella later became a recurring character.

In 2010, Matlin produced a pilot for a reality show she titled My Deaf Family, which she presented to various national network executives. Although they expressed interest, no network purchased rights to the show. On March 29, 2010, Matlin uploaded the pilot to YouTube and launched a viral marketing campaign.

On July 26, 2010, Matlin signed a speech at an event commemorating the 20th anniversary of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

In the following year, Matlin was a finalist on the NBC show The Celebrity Apprentice, competing to win money for her charity, The Starkey Hearing Foundation, finishing in second place. However, on one episode of The Celebrity Apprentice, "The Art of the Deal", which was transmitted on April 3, 2011, she raised more funds than had ever been raised for charity in a single event on any television show before, $986,000. Donald Trump, who was then hosting The Celebrity Apprentice, then donated an additional $14,000 to make the contribution an even million.

In 2013, Matlin played herself in No Ordinary Hero: The SuperDeafy Movie. As of January 2015, Matlin also acted as the ACLU's celebrity ambassador for disability rights.

As a "celebrity ambassador" for the ACLU, in attempts to bridge the gap between law enforcement and the deaf community, Matlin discussed the communication barriers when deaf individuals are stopped by the police.

Matlin played the recurring character of Melody Bledsoe on Switched at Birth. In September 2015, she made her Broadway debut in the revival production of the musical Spring Awakening.

Beginning in 2017, Matlin played the recurring role of Harriet on the Syfy television series, The Magicians.

On July 31, 2017, it was announced by Deadline that Matlin joined as a series regular in the third season of the ABC thriller Quantico. She starred in the role of ex-FBI agent Jocelyn Turner.

In 2019, Matlin was mentioned in an article by Hearing Like Me as somebody that could bring more #DeafTalent to "Life and Deaf," a new comedy show set in the 1970s that aims to explore the life of a kid with deaf parents. This show was to be executive produced by Marlee Matlin according to Deadline.

In 2021 Matlin appeared in CODA, an American comedy-drama film that follows a hearing teenage girl who is a child of deaf adults (CODA for short). The film stars Emilia Jones as the hearing girl, with Matlin and Troy Kotsur as her culturally Deaf parents and Daniel Durant as her Deaf brother.

Matlin is actively involved with a number of charitable organizations, including Easter Seals (where she was appointed an Honorary board member), the Children Affected by AIDS Foundation, Elizabeth Glaser Pediatric AIDS Foundation, VSA arts, and the Red Cross Celebrity Cabinet. She was appointed by President Clinton in 1994 to the Corporation for National Service and served as chair of National Volunteer Week. Matlin was a participant in the first-ever national television advertising campaign supporting donations to Jewish federations. The program featured "film and television personalities celebrating their Jewish heritage and promoting charitable giving to the Jewish community" and included Matlin received an honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters degree from Gallaudet University in 1987. In October 2007, she was appointed to the Gallaudet University Board of Trustees. In 1988, Matlin received the Samuel S. Beard Award for Greatest Public Service by an Individual 35 Years or Under, an award given out annually by Jefferson Awards.

Matlin attended the 1988 Oscars to present the Academy Award for Best Actor. After signing her introduction in ASL, she spoke aloud the "names of the nominees" and of Michael Douglas, the winner.

On April 14, 2009, Matlin released an autobiography, I'll Scream Later. In it, she describes her drug abuse and how it drove her to check herself into the Betty Ford Center. She also tells about her rocky, two-year relationship with her significantly older Children of a Lesser God co-star William Hurt, who she claims was physically abusive to her. She also addresses the sexual abuse she suffered as a child at the hands of her female babysitter.

She enjoys a sense of humor about her deafness: "Often I'm talking to people through my speakerphone, and after 10 minutes or so they say, 'Wait a minute, Marlee, how can you hear me?' They forget I have an interpreter there who is signing to me as they talk. So I say, 'You know what? I can hear on Wednesdays.'"

Matlin has been a strong advocate for the rights of deaf people, accepting television roles only if producers commit to caption the films, remaining openminded and respectful of both signed and spoken communication preferences, and promoting telephone equipment specially designed for deaf persons. She has testified

In 1991, Matlin received the Bernard Bragg Young Artists Achievement Award at the Annual International Creative Arts Festival sponsored by the Center on Deafness in Chicago.

Matlin married Burbank police officer Kevin Grandalski on August 29, 1993, at the home of actor Henry Winkler. They first met while she was filming a scene from Reasonable Doubts outside the studio grounds; the police department had assigned Grandalski to provide security and control traffic. They have four children: Sarah (born 1996), Brandon (born 2000), Tyler (born 2002), and Isabelle (born 2003).

WHAT'S COOKIN'?

Homemade Make Ahead Mashed Potatoes

Prep 25 MIN

Servings 8

Ingredients

9 medium potatoes (3 pounds)

3/4 cup milk

1/2 cup whipping (heavy) cream

1/2 cup butter

1 teaspoon salt

1/8 teaspoon pepper

Steps

1-Scrub potatoes. Leave skins on, if desired, or peel thinly and remove eyes. Cut into large pieces. Heat 1 inch water (salted if desired) to boiling in 3-quart saucepan; add potato pieces. Cover and heat to boiling; reduce heat. Cook covered 20 to 25 minutes or until tender; drain. Shake pan gently over low heat to dry potatoes.

2-Heat milk, whipping cream, butter, salt and pepper in 1-quart saucepan over medium-low heat, stirring occasionally, until butter is melted. Measure out 1/4 cup of the milk mixture; cover and refrigerate.

3-Add remaining milk mixture in small amounts to potatoes in medium bowl, mashing with potato masher or electric mixer after each addition. (Amount of milk needed to make potatoes smooth and fluffy depends on kind of potatoes used.) Beat vigorously until potatoes are light and fluffy.

4-Spray 2-quart casserole with cooking spray. Spoon potatoes into casserole; cover and refrigerate up to 24 hours.

5-When ready to bake, heat oven to 350° F. Reheat reserved milk mixture in microwave. Then pour milk mixture over potatoes. Bake uncovered 40 to 45 minutes or until potatoes are hot. Just before serving, stir potatoes.

6-ALTERNATE METHOD: Only have one oven and need to bake all your sides at the same temperature? You also can reheat these at 325°F. When ready to bake, heat oven to 325°F. Reheat reserved milk mixture in microwave. Then pour milk mixture over potatoes. Bake uncovered 60 to 65 minutes or until potatoes are hot. Just before serving, stir potatoes.

TRIVIA ANSWERS

- Answer: From "Clueless" and "Friends" to the "Ant-Man" franchise, Paul Rudd has played everything from heartthrob to hero, and now, he's the Sexiest Man Alive. Rudd earned the honor from People Magazine last week, which was announced on "The Late Show with Stephen Colbert." Paul Rudd rose to stardom with his breakout performance in the 1995 film Clueless and enjoyed major box-office success in the films Anchorman (2004), The 40-Year-Old Virgin (2005), Knocked Up (2007), and This Is 40 (2012). He went on to enter the world of Marvel superhero stardom with 2015's Ant-Man and the 2018 sequel.
- Answer: Margie Hines was best known for her work as a voice artist at Fleischer Studios, where she voiced Olive Oyl in the Popeye the Sailor cartoons from 1938 to 1943. During this period, she fell in love and married her co-star Jack Mercer, who provided the voice of Popeye. The couple joked that they ate spinach on the morning of their wedding in honor of the cartoon that brought them together. Hines was also the original voice actress for the cartoon character Betty Boop, who debuted in the cartoon short Dizzy Dishes in 1930. Hines voiced Betty Boop from 1930 until 1932 and again from 1938 until 1939.

3. Answer: Believe it or not, there are over 7 trillion nerves in the human body. All these nerves are part of what's known as your body's nervous system. Nerves are the electrical wiring of your body, transmitting signals between your brain, spinal cord, and the rest of your body. The sciatic nerve is the largest and longest nerve in the human body, originating at the base of the spine and running along the back of each leg into the foot. At its thickest point, it is about as wide as an adult thumb. This long, thick, and bulky nerve supplies most areas of the thigh, leg, and foot.
4. Answer: As their name implies, worker bees are the laborers of the beehive. The worker bees are all female, and do not breed. Their jobs include collecting the pollen and nectar, defending the hive, feeding the queen, drones and larvae, and making the wax. Because they work so hard, during the busy season, a summer time worker bee will live for only about six weeks. As all beekeepers can confirm, a worker bee has a stinger, but they can only sting mammals once and then they die. They can, however, sting other insects over and over again to protect the hive.
5. Answer: Baseball fans nicknamed Joe DiMaggio "The Yankee Clipper" – but millions more remember him as the pitchman for Mr. Coffee. DiMaggio was the spokesman and face of the electric drip coffee makers for over 20 years. His endorsement of Mr. Coffee served to boost sales of the coffeemaker and earned DiMaggio the nickname "Mr. Coffee." Despite his commercials for Mr. Coffee, DiMaggio rarely drank coffee due to ulcers. However, when he did drink coffee, DiMaggio preferred Sanka instant coffee, rather than the coffee brewed by Mr. Coffee machines.
6. Answer: On April 7, 1940, Booker T. Washington became the first African American to be depicted on a United States postage stamp. The 10-cent stamp issued by the U.S. Post Office Department was part of the Famous American Commemorative series. Born a slave on a Virginia farm, Washington rose to become one of the most influential African-American intellectuals of the late 19th century. The legendary educator and author founded the Tuskegee Institute in 1881, a black school in Alabama devoted to training teachers. Tuskegee

7. Answer: In 1985, a little-known actor named George Clooney landed a recurring role on the sitcom The Facts of Life. Clooney played handyman George Burnett in 17 episodes of the popular teen comedy from 1985 to 1987. His early acting credits also included small roles on Roseanne, The Golden Girls, and Murder, She Wrote. Clooney rose to prominence in 1994 as Dr. Doug Ross on the medical drama ER. He achieved Hollywood superstardom in films such as The Perfect Storm, Ocean's Eleven, Michael Clayton, Up in the Air, Gravity and Syriana.
8. Answer: Although John Adams was the second president of the United States, he was the first to reside in the White House. Adams was responsible for building the White House stables, and his dogs were the first to run on the White House lawn. Adams and his wife Abigail had a number of presidential pets with unusual names. They had a horse named Cleopatra, as well as two mongrel dogs named Juno and Satan. We're guessing the latter dog named Satan must have been a bit of a rabble rouser. Regrettably, the origin of the name has been lost to history.

9. Answer: In the 2000 film Cast Away, Tom Hanks plays a FedEx employee stranded on a desert island after his plane crashes in the South Pacific. The plot focuses on his desperate attempts to survive and return home. Hanks' character spends the majority of the film stranded with his only companion Wilson, a volleyball that he speaks to regularly throughout the film. The ball may have started out as a simple object but by the end of the movie, Hanks was heartbroken to watch Wilson float away. After the film's release, one of the original volleyball props was auctioned off for $18,500 to Ken May, the former CEO of FedEx.
10. Answer: Albert R. Broccoli was a film producer who made more than 40 films throughout his career. Co-founder of Eon Productions, Broccoli is most notable as the producer of the James Bond films. Broccoli produced every Bond movie starting with the very first film, Dr. No, in 1962, to Licence to Kill in 1989. The credits sequence to the films began with the words "Albert R. Broccoli Presents." After his death, it was decided that all subsequent Bond films should continue to bear Broccoli's name. Therefore, all Bond films since Tomorrow Never Dies have opened with the line "Albert R. Broccoli's EON Productions presents".
