HOLLYWOOD WALK OF FAME

Leslie William Nielsen OC (11 February 1926 – 28 November 2010) was a Canadian-American dramatic and comedic actor. With a career spanning 60 years, he appeared in more than 100 films and 150 television programs, portraying more than 220 characters.

Nielsen was born in Regina, Saskatchewan. After high school, he enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force in 1943 and served until the end of World War II. Upon his discharge, Nielsen worked as a disc jockey before receiving a scholarship to study theatre at the Neighborhood Playhouse. He made his acting debut in 1950, appearing in 46 live television programs a year. Nielsen made his film debut in 1956, with supporting roles in several dramas and western and romance films produced between the 1950s and the 1970s.

Although his notable performances in the films Forbidden Planet and The Poseidon Adventure gave him standing as a serious actor, Nielsen later gained enduring recognition for his deadpan comedy roles during the 1980s, after being cast for the Zucker, Abrahams and Zucker comedy film Airplane!. In his comedy roles, Nielsen specialized in portraying characters oblivious to and complicit in their absurd surroundings. Nielsen's performance in Airplane! marked his turning point, which made him "the Olivier of spoofs" according to film critic Roger Ebert, and leading to further success in the genre with The Naked Gun film series, based on the earlier short-lived television series Police Squad!, in which Nielsen also starred. Nielsen received a variety of awards and was inducted into Canada's Walk of Fame and the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

Nielsen was born on 11 February 1926 in Regina, Saskatchewan. His mother, Mabel Elizabeth (née Davies), was an immigrant from Wales, and his father, Ingvard Evensen Nielsen (1900–1975), was a Danish-born constable in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Nielsen was born the second of two boys to both his parents. His elder brother, Erik Nielsen (1924–2008), was a long-time Canadian Member of Parliament, cabinet minister, and Deputy Prime Minister of Canada from 1984 to 1986. He also has a half-brother, Gilbert Nielsen, from his father's other relationship.

Nielsen's half-uncle Jean Hersholt inspired him to become an actor. Nielsen's half-uncle Jean Hersholt was an actor known for his portrayal of Dr. Christian in a radio series of that title, and the subsequent television series and films. In a 1994 Boston Globe article, Nielsen explained, "I did learn very early that when I would mention my uncle, people would look at me as if I were the biggest liar in the world. Then I would take them home and show them 8-by-10 glossies, and things changed quite drastically. So I began to think that maybe this acting business was not a bad idea, much as I was very shy about it and certainly without courage regarding it. My uncle died not too long after I was in a position to know him. I regret that I had not a chance to know him better."

Nielsen lived for several years in Fort Norman (now Tulita) in the Northwest Territories, where his father was with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. His father was an abusive man who beat his wife and sons, and Leslie longed to escape. Following graduation from Victoria High School (later renamed Victoria School of the Arts) in Edmonton, he enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force at age 17 in 1943, though he was legally deaf (he wore hearing aids most of his life). There he trained as an aerial gunner during World War II. However, he was too young to be fully trained or sent overseas. Upon the war's end, Nielsen was discharged and worked briefly as a disc jockey at a Calgary, Alberta, radio station, before enrolling at the Lorne Greene Academy of Radio Arts in Toronto.

While studying in Toronto, Nielsen received a scholarship to the Neighborhood Playhouse. He noted, "I couldn't refuse, but I must say when you come from the land of the snow goose, the moose, and wool to New York, you're bringing every ton of hayseed and country bumpkin that you packed. As long as I didn't open my mouth, I felt a certain security. But I always thought I was going to be unmasked: 'OK, pack your stuff.' 'Well, what's the matter?' 'We've discovered you have no talent; we're shipping you back to Canada.'"

He moved to New York City for his scholarship, studying theatre and music at the Neighborhood Playhouse, while performing in summer stock theatre. Afterward, he attended the Actors Studio, until his first television appearance in 1950 on an episode of Studio One, alongside Charlton Heston, for which he was paid $75 (equivalent to $840 in 2021).

Early career-"It was a strange era, the tail end of the golden age. A time when the Tiffany's of filmmakers was burying its head in the sand and trying to pretend that this new medium (television) was not happening."

Nielsen's career began in dramatic roles on television during "Television's Golden Age", appearing in 46 live programs in 1950 alone. He said there "was very little gold, we only got $75 or $100 per show." He narrated documentaries and commercials and most of his early work as a dramatic actor was uneventful. Hal Erickson of Allmovie noted that "much of Nielsen's early work was undistinguished; he was merely a handsome leading man in an industry overstocked with handsome leading men."

In 1956, he made his feature-film debut in the Michael Curtiz-directed musical film The Vagabond King. In the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Nielsen remembered Curtiz as "a sadist, a charming sadist, but a sadist". Nielsen called this film "The Vagabond Turkey". Though the film was not a success, producer Nicholas Nayfack offered him an audition for the science-fiction film Forbidden Planet, resulting in Nielsen's taking a long contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer (MGM).

Nielsen: "Supposedly a science-fiction version of Shakespeare's The Tempest, it was all about the id, or something like that. Who knows? The Trekkies today regard it as the forerunner of Star Trek. I just had to wear a tight uniform and make eyes at Anne Francis. I was pretty thin back then."

Forbidden Planet became an instant success, and roles in other MGM films such as Ransom! (1956), The Opposite Sex (1956) and Hot Summer Night (1957) followed. In 1957, he won the lead role opposite Debbie Reynolds in the romantic comedy Tammy and the Bachelor, which, as a Chicago Tribune critic wrote in 1998, made people consider Nielsen a dramatic actor and handsome romantic lead. However, dissatisfied with the films he was offered, calling the studios "a Tiffany, which had forgotten how to make silver", Nielsen left MGM after auditioning for Messala in the 1959 Ben-Hur. Stephen Boyd got the role.

After leaving the studios, Nielsen landed the lead role in the Disney miniseries The Swamp Fox, as American Revolutionary War hero Francis Marion. In a 1988 interview, he reflected on the series, saying, "That was a great experience, because the Disney people didn't do their shows like everyone else, knocking out an episode a week. ... We only had to do an episode a month, and the budgets were extremely high for TV at that time. We had location shooting rather than cheap studio backdrops, and very authentic costumes." Eight episodes were produced and aired between 1959 and 1961.

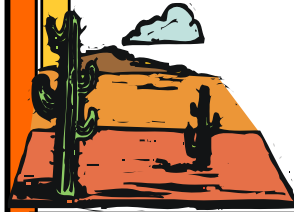

His television appearances include Justice, Alfred Hitchcock Presents, Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea, Wagon Train, Gunsmoke, The Virginian, and The Wild Wild West. In 1961, he was the lead in a Los Angeles police drama called The New Breed. He guest-starred in a 1964 episode of Daniel Boone with Fess Parker in a minor but credited role. In 1968, he had a major role in the pilot for the police series Hawaii Five-O, and appeared in one of the seventh-season episodes. In 1969,

Comedy: Airplane! and The Naked Gun

In an early comedic appearance, Nielsen appeared on M*A*S*H in 1973 as the title character in "The Ringbanger."

Nielsen's supporting role of Dr. Rumack in Zucker, Abrahams, and Zucker's 1980's Airplane! was a turning point in his career. The film, a parody of disaster films such as Zero Hour! and Airport, was based on building a comedy around actors known for dramatic roles. Other stars included Robert Stack, Peter Graves, and Lloyd Bridges. Nielsen's deadpan delivery contrasted with the absurdity surrounding him. When asked, "Surely you can't be serious?", he responded with a curt, "I am serious. And don't call me Shirley." In several interviews, he reflected on the line: "I thought it was amusing, but it never occurred to me that it was going to become a trademark. It's such a surprise ... the thing comes out, people say, 'What did he say?!'"

Nielsen said he was "pleased and honored that he had a chance to deliver that line." As of 2010, the comedic exchange was at number 79 on the American Film Institute's AFI's 100 Years...100 Movie Quotes. The American Film Institute included the film in its list of the top-10 comedy films of all time in 2008, and a 2007 survey in the United Kingdom judged it the second-greatest comedy film of all time. In 2012, Empire voted it number one in the 50 Funniest Comedies Ever poll. Critics praised the film, which also proved a long-term success with audiences. In 2010, Airplane! was selected for preservation in the National Film Registry by the Library of Congress.

The directors cast Nielsen for his ability to play like "a fish in water", saying "You could have cast funny people and done it with everybody winking, goofing off, and silly ... we wanted people to be oblivious to the comedy." For Nielsen, Airplane! marked a shift from dramatic roles to deadpan comedy. When it was suggested his role in Airplane! was against type, Nielsen protested that he had "always been cast against type before", and that comedy was what he always wanted to do. The same directors cast Nielsen in a similar style, in their TV series Police Squad!. The series introduced Nielsen as Frank Drebin, the stereotypical police officer modelled after serious characters in earlier police series.

Police Squad's opening sequence was based on the 1950s show M Squad, which starred Lee Marvin, and opened with footage of a police car roving through a dark urban setting with a big band playing a jazz song in the background. The Hank Simms voice-over and the show's organization into acts with an epilogue was homage to Quinn Martin police dramas including The Fugitive, The Streets of San Francisco, Barnaby Jones, The F.B.I., and Cannon. Nielsen portrayed a serious character whose one-liners appeared accidental next to the pratfalls and sight gags that were happening around him. Although the show lasted only six episodes, Nielsen received an Emmy Award nomination for Outstanding Lead Actor in a Comedy Series.

Six years after cancellation of Police Squad!, the film The Naked Gun: From the Files of Police Squad! returned Nielsen to his role as Frank Drebin. It involved a ruthless drug king trying hypnosis to assassinate Queen Elizabeth II. Nielsen did many of his own stunts: "You have an idea of how you're going to do something, and it's your vision ... unless you do it, it really doesn't stand a chance." This movie grossed over $78 million and was well received by critics. Ebert's 3+1/2-star review (out of four) noted, "You laugh, and then you laugh at yourself for laughing."

The Naked Gun spawned two sequels: The Naked Gun 2½: The Smell of Fear (1991) and Naked Gun 33½: The Final In- sult (1994). The Naked Gun 2½ grossed more than the original, with $86.9 million, while 33 grossed $51.1 million. Nielsen remained open to a fourth Naked Gun film, although he doubted that it would be produced — "I don't think so", he said in 2005. "If there hasn't been one by now, I doubt it. I think it would be wonderful."

Nielsen briefly appeared on the World Wrestling Federation program in the summer of 1994 on WWF Monday Night Raw, capitalizing on Frank Drebin. Nielsen (and George Kennedy) were hired as sleuths to unravel the mystery of the Undertaker, who had disappeared at January's Royal Rumble event. At SummerSlam 1994, in a Naked Gun parody, they were hot on the case (in fact, they were standing on a case). Although they did not find the Undertaker, the case had been closed (the literal case had been shut), thus they solved the mystery. In 1990, Nielsen appeared as a Frank Drebin character in advertisements in the United Kingdom for Red Rock Cider.

Noncomedic roles after Airplane! included Prom Night (1980) and Creepshow (1982), both horror films, and as a dramatic and unsympathetic character in the 1986 comedy Soul Man. His last dramatic role was as Allen Green, a violent client of a prostitute killed in self-defence by Barbra Streisand's character, Claudia Draper, in Martin Ritt's courtroom drama Nuts (1987).

Later comedies

After Airplane! and The Naked Gun, Nielsen portrayed similarly styled roles in a number of other films. These mostly emulated the style of The Naked Gun with varying success and often targeted specific films; many were panned by critics and most performed poorly. Repossessed (1990) and 2001: A Space Travesty (2001) were parodies of The Exor- cist and 2001: A Space Odyssey, respectively. Both attempted absurd comedy, but were poorly received. Even a leading role in a Mel Brooks comic horror, Dracula: Dead and Loving It, failed to generate much box-office excitement, although it did gain a following in a later release to video. Both 1996's Spy Hard and 1998's Wrongfully Accused, a parody of James Bond films and The Fugitive, were popular on video, but not well received by critics.

His attempt at children's comedies met additional criticism. Surf Ninjas (1993) and Mr. Magoo (1997) had scathing reviews. Several critics were disappointed that Nielsen's role in Surf Ninjas was only "an extended cameo" and Chris Hicks recommended that viewers "avoid any comedy that features Leslie Nielsen outside of the Naked Gun series." Jeff Miller of the Houston Chronicle panned Mr. Magoo, a live-action remake of the 1950s cartoon, by saying, "I'm supposed to suggest how the film might be better, but I can't think of anything to say other than to make the film again."

Nielsen's first major success since The Naked Gun came in a supporting role in Scary Movie 3 (2003). His appearance as President Harris led to a second appearance in its sequel, Scary Movie 4 (2006). This was the first time Nielsen had reprised a character since Frank Drebin. In one scene, Nielsen appeared almost nude, and one critic referred to the scene as putting "the 'scary' in Scary Movie 4."

Video, stage, and celebrity productions-Nielsen also produced instructional golf videos, which were not presented in a serious style, beginning with 1993's Bad Golf Made Easier. The videos combined comedy with golf techniques. The series spawned two additional sequels, Bad Golf My Way (1994) and Stupid Little Golf Video (1997). Nielsen also co-wrote a fictional autobiography titled The Naked Truth. The book portrayed Nielsen as a popular actor with a long history of prestigious films.

In his 80s, Nielsen performed serious roles on screen and stage (such as his one-man theatre show Darrow, in which he played Clarence Darrow), as well as providing voice-overs and appearances for commercials (including spots for a credit union in Arizona, where he owned a secondary residence), cartoons such as Zeroman, where he had the leading role/ voice, children's shows, such as Pumper Pups, which he narrated, and comedic film roles. The sibling relationship with his elder brother, the Honourable Erik Nielsen, a former Deputy Prime Minister of Canada, served as the premise of an HBO mockumentary entitled The Canadian Conspiracy in which Leslie Nielsen appeared, along with other prominent Canadian-born media personalities. He was a celebrity contestant on CBS's Gameshow Marathon, where he played The Price Is Right, Let's Make a Deal, Beat the Clock, and Press Your Luck for charity.

Final acting years-Nielsen in March 2009 at DeSales University in Center Valley, Pennsylvania
Beginning in February 2007, Nielsen began playing a small role as a doctor in the humorous yet educational television show Doctor*Ology. The show chronicles real-life medical techniques and technology on the Discovery Channel. Nielsen said: "There are any number of things that you think about when you ponder if you hadn't been an actor, what would you be, and I've always said I'd like to be an astronaut or a doctor. I have such admiration for doctors. I just don't know how you go around to thank them enough for coming up with the world's most remarkable new discoveries."

In 2007, Nielsen starred in the drama Music Within. In 2008, he portrayed a version of Uncle Ben for Superhero Movie, a spoof of superhero films. He then appeared in the 2008 parody An American Carol, which David Zucker directed, produced, and co-wrote. He appeared in the 2009 parody Stan Helsing. Nielsen portrayed the doctor in the Spanish horror comedy Spanish Movie, a spoof comedy like Scary Movie, but making fun of popular Spanish films.

Nielsen appeared in more than 100 films and 1,500 television episodes, portraying more than 220 characters.

Personal life-I'm afraid if I don't keep moving, they're going to catch me ... I am 81 years old and I want to see what's around the corner, and I don't see any reason in the world not to keep working. But I am starting to value my down time a great deal because I am realizing there might be other things to do that I am overlooking.

Nielsen married four times: to nightclub singer Monica Boyar (1950–1956), Alisande Ullman (1958–1973), Brooks Oliver (1981–1983), and Barbaree Earl (2001 – his death in 2010). He had two daughters from his second marriage, Maura and Thea Nielsen.

Nielsen often played golf. He joked, "I have no goals or ambition. I do, however, wish to work enough to maintain whatever celebrity status I have so that they will continue to invite me to golf tournaments." His interest in the sport led him to comedic instructional films.

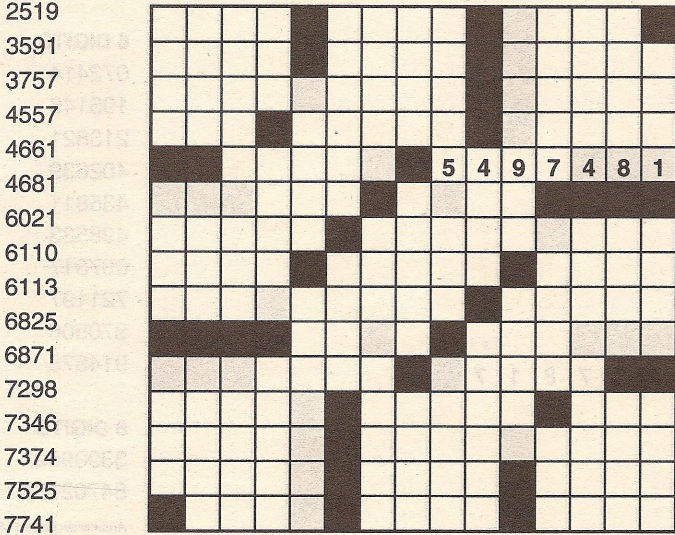

Nielsen was a practical joker and known for pranking people with a portable hand-controlled fart machine. His epitaph reads "Let 'er rip", a final reference to his favorite practical joke.

In his later years, Nielsen and his wife Barberie resided between homes in Fort Lauderdale, Florida and Paradise Valley, Arizona.

Nielsen was legally deaf and wore hearing aids for most of his life. Because of this, he supported the Better Hearing Institute. Later in life, Nielsen had knee osteoarthritis. He participated in an educational video from The Arthritis Research Centre of Canada (ARC), demonstrating the physical examination of a patient with knee osteoarthritis.

Illness and death-Leslie Nielsen's gravestone bearing his epitaph, a final reference to his favorite practical joke, a fart machine. In November 2010, Nielsen was admitted to Holy Cross Hospital, Fort Lauderdale, Florida, with pneumonia. On November 28, Doug Nielsen, Nielsen's nephew, told the CJOB radio station that 84-year-old Nielsen had died in his sleep from pneumonia around 5:30 pm EST surrounded by family and friends. His body was interred in Fort Lauderdale's Evergreen Cemetery. As a final bit of humor, Nielsen chose "Let 'er rip" as his epitaph.

Achievements-Among his awards, in 1995 Nielsen received UCLA's Jack Benny Award. In 1988, he became the 1,884th personality to receive a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame at 6541 Hollywood Blvd. In 2001 he was inducted into Canada's Walk of Fame. The following year he was made an Officer of the Order of Canada, although he was also a naturalized US citizen.

With his American citizenship, he maintained his Canadian heritage: "There's no way you can be a Canadian and think you can lose it ... Canadians are a goodly group. They are very aware of caring and helping." On 19 May 2005, during the centennial gala of his birth province, Saskatchewan, Leslie Nielsen was introduced to HM Queen Elizabeth II.

In 1997, a Golden Palm Star on the Palm Springs, California, Walk of Stars was dedicated to him.

On 20 February 2002, Nielsen was named an honorary citizen of West Virginia and an Ambassador of Mountain State Goodwill. Nielsen visited the state many times to speak and visit friends. In 2003, in honor of Nielsen, Grant MacEwan College named its school of communications after him. Also in 2003, the Alliance of Canadian Cinema, Television and Radio Artists awarded him the ACTRA Award of Excellence.

4. Place the potatoes, carrots, onion, and garlic in the bottom of a 5-6 quart oval slow cooker.
5. Heat a pan over medium-high heat, then add the oil. When the oil is heated, brown the chicken thighs in the pan, about 3-4 minutes per side. Do not overcrowd the chicken or the chicken will steam and not brown. Cook in batches if necessary.
6. Place browned chicken thighs on top of the vegetables then pour in chicken broth.
7. Cook on low for 8 hours, or high for 4 hours.
8. Remove chicken, potatoes, and carrots from the slow cooker onto serving dishes.
9. Mix cornstarch and water together to make a slurry and add to the slow cooker. Turn the slow cooker on high to thicken broth into gravy. Season with salt and pepper to taste.

Notes You can use large red or yellow potatoes cut smaller.

The gravy made can be used for other meals.

Italian Tortellini Salad

Packed with crisp fresh-cut vegetables, mozzarella cheese cubes, and perfectly cooked cheese tortellini all covered in a zesty Italian salad dressing and grated parmesan cheese, this Italian Tortellini Salad is an excellent combination of flavors and textures. It's the perfect summer side dish!

Prep Time 20 minutes

Cook Time 10 minutes

Chill 2 hours

Servings 10

Ingredients

- 18 ounces tricolor five cheese tortellini
- 1½ cups Italian dressing homemade or store-bought
- 1 pint cherry tomatoes halved
- 1 cup mozzarella cheese sticks cut to 1/4-1/2 inch length
- 5 ounces mini pepperoni

- cup red onion thinly sliced
- 1 orange bell pepper diced
- 1 cup mini cucumbers sliced and halved
- 1 cup baby carrots sliced
- 2 tablespoons grated parmesan cheese
- 1 tablespoon fresh parsley chopped

Instructions

1. Bring a medium pot of water to a boil and cook the tortellini according to the package directions. Then rinse and cool the tortellini by gently running it under cold water in a strainer.
2. Once all other ingredients are prepped, mix all ingredients together in a large bowl. It is best to refrigerate two hours before serving or you can eat it fresh. Enjoy!

Notes-Tips for a Great Pasta Salad, Start boiling the water and cook the pasta, while you chop the vegetables. This will save you time. Don't overcook the tortellini. The tortellini will soak up dressing the longer it sits. If your pasta salad seems dry, add more dressing.

Are Flip-Flops Good for Your Feet or a Total Flop?

During the summer, flip-flops are a staple, especially here in the U.S. They're lightweight, easy to slip on and keep your feet cool in warm temps. They also come in a variety of styles, fabrics, colors and prices – from your $3 Old Navy pair to your $100 Havaianas.

While your flip-flops may give you a stylish look for the boardwalk, could they be setting you up for a trip to the podiatrist later on?

Why are flip-flops bad for your feet? According to Austin Matthews, DPM, a podiatrist with Banner Health Clinic in Wyoming, wearing flip-flops may be airy and nice, but they provide you inferior environmental protection, which can open you up to injuries and accidents.

Many flip-flops are thin and flimsy, which makes it easy for glass, rocks, thorns and other dangerous objects on the ground to poke through or get into the flip-flop. They also tend to fit loosely which means that your feet have to work harder to keep them in place.

“When your feet have to work hard to keep flip-flops on, you can set yourself up for overuse injuries,” Dr. Matthews said. “Prolonged wear can also affect your gait and posture, which can lead to stress not only to the foot but also the ankle and rest of the body.”

While some people may not experience symptoms right away, flip-flops can cause or worsen a number of foot problems, including:

Plantar fasciitis

The plantar fascia is a shock-absorbing bowstring-like ligament that connects your heel bone to your toes. When you walk in flip-flops, your feet flatten as your arch collapses simply because your flip-flops lack arch support. This causes the bowstring in your arch to stretch out and cause tiny tears in the ligament. Over time, you may feel a stabbing arch pain and/or heel pain.

Stress fractures

One of the most serious problems with flip-flops is a stress fracture of the metatarsal bones, the long bones leading out of the toes. Traditional flip-flops lack support for the bones in your feet. Stress fractures occur due to repetitive micro-trauma, or injury, to the bones from standing or walking long distances in flip-flops.

Toe problems

Constant gripping with your toes can cause tendonitis in your toes. This can be painful and lead to tears or ruptures of your tendons. Wearing flip-flops for too long can also cause bunions or hammer-toes to develop. Hammertoe is a bending in the joints of your toes and can affect any toe except the big toe. Bunions only affect the big toe and occur when the bones in your foot become misaligned.

Other foot problems

In addition to all the conditions above, flip-flop use can lead to injuries such as Achilles tendonitis, capsulitis, Morton's neuroma, pain on the ball of the foot and turf toe (sprain in the big toe). Since your feet aren't well protected, wearing flip-flops can also put you at greater risk for stubbed toes, cuts, insect bites and infection.

When are flip-flops OK to wear?

Although flip-flops don't have a great reputation for being good for your feet, there are times when they're acceptable. This might include wearing them in public showers, locker rooms, water parks, poolside or as you walk to and from the beach and your car. They can minimize your risk of stepping on things or being exposed to fungus that can lead to athlete's foot or toenail fungus.

"Flip-flops are OK basically anytime you're looking for a limited amount of protection for a short period of time, and won't be doing anything strenuous," Dr. Matthews said. "The key is moderation."

Some flip-flops are better than others. Even knowing how bad flip-flops can be for your feet, you probably won't stop wearing them. So, here are a few tips from the American Podiatric Medical Association (APMA) to help you avoid a flip-flop fiasco:

Look for sturdy sandals made of soft leather to minimize irritation and blisters.

Make sure they have enough straps to keep the flip-flops securely in place while you walk.

Do the bend test: ensure it bends at the ball of the foot and not the arch.

Replace them every three to four months, like a toothbrush.

Purchase flip-flops and sandals that hold the APMA's Seal of Acceptance.

Takeaway

The key to avoiding problems with your toes, feet and body is wearing flip-flops in moderation. Save your floppies for the beach, pool and around the house, and switch to more supportive shoes otherwise.

"You should wear the right shoes for whatever activity you are doing, and the list of things that flip-flops are the right shoe for is a very short list," Dr. Matthews said.

2. Answer: The first TV remote control, called the "Lazy Bones," was developed in 1950 by Zenith. The Lazy Bones could turn a television on and off as well as change channels and adjust the volume. It was not, however, a wireless remote control. A long, heavy cord connected the Lazy Bones remote control to the television. Although customers enjoyed having remote control of their television, they complained about tripping over the cord. The invention of the wireless TV remote control five years later would put an end to this issue.

3. Answer: The View is a daytime talk show created by broadcast journalist Barbara Walters. Currently in its 25th season, the show has aired on ABC as part of the network's daytime programming block since August 11, 1997. Throughout its run, The View has had 22 permanent co-hosts of varying characteristics and ideologies. The View premiered with four co-hosts: Meredith Vieira as moderator, Star Jones, Debbie Matenopoulos, and Barbara Walters. Joy Behar, who was originally announced to be occasionally filling in as the fourth co-host when Walters was unavailable, soon became a full-time co-host.
4. Answer: When it premiered in September 1960, The Flintstones was the first animated prime-time television series. The cartoon about a modern stone-age family was created by the team of William Hanna and Joseph Barbera, and was almost called "The Flagstones." It was also the first cartoon to feature two people of the opposite sex sleeping together in the same bed. The show ended up succeeding beyond anyone's wildest dreams, running for six seasons and was nominated for an Emmy Award for Outstanding Comedy Series in its debut season.

5. Answer: That's right, Costco's best-selling item is toilet paper. Costco sells over a billion rolls of toilet paper a year, bringing in over $400 million on the bathroom essential alone. The high quality and warehouse price of Costco's Kirkland brand toilet paper make it fly off the shelves every day. And just because it's a bargain doesn't mean the quality is compromised. Costco actually employs a team of toilet paper engineers to review and test the product before it gets to customers. They even use a special tool to test its level of whiteness!

6. Answer: The Monkees were conceived by television producer Bob Rafelson for a sitcom of the same name, which aired from 1966 to 1968. The fictional TV quartet became so popular on the show that they found success as a legitimate band off-screen. The Monkees became one of the most popular bands of the 1960s, thanks to the success of their television show. The band reached teen-idol status and sold over 75 million records, even outselling the Beatles in 1967. The Monkees had several hit songs, including three number ones — "Daydream Believer," "I'm a Believer," and "Last Train to Clarksville."

7. Answer: Famed British author Charles Dickens created some of the world's best-known fictional characters and is regarded by many as the greatest novelist of the Victorian era. Over the course of his career, Dickens published a total of 15 novels, including beloved classics such as Oliver Twist, A Christmas Carol, Nicholas Nickleby, David Copperfield, A Tale of Two Cities, and Great Expectations. On paper, it was an impressive pick, but not really: Douglas never accepted the nomination or even acknowledged the campaign. In fact, he actually gave stump speeches for incumbent President Ulysses Grant. President Ulysses Grant. Although Woodhull failed to make it onto the presidential ballot, her bold campaign paved the way for the women who followed her.

9. Answer: The Louvre Pyramid is a large glass and metal pyramid designed by architect I.M. Pei. It is surrounded by three smaller pyramids in the main courtyard of the Louvre Palace in Paris. The large pyramid serves as the main entrance to the Louvre Museum. Completed in 1989, The Louvre Pyramid has become a landmark of the city of Paris. The pyramid and the underground lobby beneath it were created because of a series of problems with the Louvre's original main entrance, which could no longer handle the enormous number of visitors on an everyday basis.

Mark gets a headache and takes some aspirin to school.
1957 - Mark shares his aspirin with the Principal out on the smoking deck.
2020 - The police are called and Mark is expelled from school for drug violations. His car is then searched for drugs and weapons.

Scenario 6:

Pedro fails high school English.
1957 - Pedro goes to summer school, passes English and goes to college.
2020 - Pedro's cause is taken up by state. Newspaper articles appear nationally explaining that teaching English as a requirement for graduation is racist. ACLU files class action lawsuit against the state school system and Pedro's English teacher. English is then banned from core curriculum. Pedro is given his diploma anyway but ends up mowing lawns for a living because he cannot speak English.

Scenario 7:

Johnny takes apart leftover firecrackers from the Fourth of July, puts them in a model airplane paint bottle and blows up a red ant bed.
1957 - Ants die.
2020 - ATF, Homeland Security and the FBI are all called. Johnny is charged with domestic terrorism. The FBI investigates his parents -- and all siblings are removed from their home and all computers are confiscated. Johnny's dad is Principal. He then returns to class, sits still and does not disrupt class again.

2020 - Jeffrey is given huge doses of Ritalin. He becomes a zombie. He is then tested for ADD. The family gets extra money (SSI) from the government because Jeffrey has a disability.

Scenario 4:

Billy breaks a window in his neighbor's car and his Dad gives him a whipping with his belt.

placed on a terror watch list and is never allowed to fly again.

Scenario 8:

Johnny falls while running during recess and scrapes his knee. He is found crying by his teacher, Mary. Mary hugs him to comfort him.

1957 - In a short time, Johnny feels better and goes on playing.

2020 - Mary is accused of being a sexual predator and loses her job. She faces 3 years in State Prison. Johnny undergoes 5 years of therapy.

This should show how stupid we have become.!
