SOLAR ENERGY + ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT + ENVIRONMENTAL STEWARDSHIP

The inaugural Solar Farm Summit lands next to O'Hare International Airport March 14 & 15 at the renowned Hilton Rosemont/Chicago O'Hare hotel in the heart of North America's heartland for 2+ difference-making days of instructive, illuminating and inspiring agrivoltaics programming! Dig into ground-mounted solar development and land use; and explore the practical application of this merger of solar power and agricultural production. Discover the enormous potential of this growing practice while also networking with hundreds of global experts when the 2023 Solar Farm Summit (SFS23) assembles North America's 1st dedicated agrivoltaics development conference and exposition!

Expect an immersive solar energy, land use and dual-use experience of the very highest educational caliber working through a thorough syllabus that builds from entry-level examination of a land-based solar project and energy, environmental and economic development basics; into exploration of the solar project lifecycle from conception through construction, operation and decommissioning; up to advanced sessions on the science of agrivoltaics, case studies, site selection, land use, land recycling, government programs, grants and incentives, as well as expert Q&A and technical assistance.

Beyond the educational program, a supercharged SFS23 social experience will feature 12 scheduled networking opportunities, including hot breakfasts and lunches together each day, and beginning with an official pre-SFS23 drinks & hors d'oeuvres event the evening of 3/13 for casual networking! Over 3 electric days, many hundreds will gather in this collaborative continental assembly representing an eclectic cross-section from myriad disciplines: non-profit & institutional professionals, private land-owners, farmers & ranchers, agronomists, real estate professionals, community reps, developers, investors, utilities, policy makers, economic developers, as well as state and federal government staff. There will be no better opportunity in North America in 2023 to get a grip on ground-mounted solar projects, steep oneself in working agrivoltaics knowledge, connect with world class solar pros, and plug into a live, in-person agrivoltaics network in a single event space!

Importantly, all the intellectual capital in SFS23's high-impact program, including every presentation, will be aggregated with other reference materials prepared by event speakers, experts and sponsors into the SFS23 Agrivoltaics Almanac, a comprehensive digital compendium prepared after the event and published free to all attendees. The Agrivoltaics Almanac will be jam-packed with key concepts, conceptual outlines and working materials extremely useful to anyone interested in developing solar energy and agrivoltaics projects from the student, to the novice, to the seasoned solar professional.

Add your spark to the start of a genuine ground-mounted renaissance in solar energy, economic development and environmental stewardship by plugging in March 13, 14 & 15 at the Hilton Rosemont/Chicago O'Hare hotel for 3 brilliant days of connection, education and inspiration in 2023's must attend solar energy, land use and agrivoltaics event!

2023 SOLAR FARM SUMMIT PROGRAM CONTENT

Led by an elite speaker lineup of more than 60 of today's foremost practitioners, a stellar SFS23 program will offer basic 101-level instruction for novices as well as state-of-the-art sessions. A high-substance approach and robust session offerings will cover the spectrum of the project life cycle from beginning to end, and from basic, need-to-knows up to pro tips and best practices.

Who, then, should attend SFS23? ANYONE with a general interest in the policy and practice of ground-mounted solar energy development, and EVERYONE with a specific interest in agrivoltaics or a project of their own! We encourage one and all to attend this power-packed event for applied knowledge from the industry's most capable pro's, keen insights from government experts and expansive exhibition!

ABOUT ROSEMONT

Rosemont is a lively village and tourist center located in Illinois' northeastern Cook County. Visitors enjoy its abundance of its conveniently located dining, recreation, retail and sporting attractions. Incorporated as a village in 1956, Rosemont forms part of the Golden Corridor, a region of flourishing economic development in Chicago's Metropolitan Area. Use its tourist-friendly amenities, making it a convenient base for exploring Chicago. One of the village's major highlights is MB Financial Park. Eat and drink at gastropubs, a Bavarian-themed bar, a burger house and a Tex-Mex restaurant, among other dining options. Attend performances by well-known country musicians and laugh along with stand-up comedians. Try indoor skydiving and take in a concert all right there in Rosemont. Then use its ultra-convenient access to the Chicago CTA Blue Line to explore all of Chicgaoland!
