SOLAR FARM SUMMIT

— 2025 —

EXHIBIT

The 2025 Solar Farm Summit is set to elevate the solar energy + agriculture experience to the next level along the shores of Lake Michigan when North America's Agrivoltaic Expo teams up with the National Brownfields Training Conference at McCormick Place in Chicago to host one consolidated expo completely dedicated to development and land use from the very best farm fields, to the very worst brownfields. Brace for an immersive, hands-on, and highly educational experience designed to inspire and engage a uniquely interdisciplinary audience. Many new features, engagement zones and interactive elements added this year will deeply enrich the overall experience and offer a caliber of interpersonal interconnection you can't find anywhere else. Anchoring food service, expo stages, meeting and chill zones, and more described below, making the expo hall at the Solar Farm Summit a must-visit destination for anyone interested in the intersection of agriculture and solar.

The Yard

Welcome to The Yard—where agriculture and energy converge! This dedicated space in the expo hall showcases oversized equipment, innovative machinery, and essential tools for solar-integrated farming. From advanced ag tech to sheep fencing and grazing supplies, The Yard highlights the equipment and infrastructure supporting the future of dual-use agriculture.

AgPV Engagement Zone

Dive into the heart of agrivoltaics with a dedicated AgPV Engagement Zone featuring numerous interactive educational activities. We hope to include other vibrant areas of engagement as well, including a petting zoo, student design challenge showcase, arcade-style learning experiences, and much more—all bringing solar farming to life in a fun and interactive way.

Expo Stage

New this year, the all-access Expo Stages will bring 101 educational sessions and entry level programming to the expo floor to provide learning opportunities for attendees with any class of ticket. These sessions are designed to educate and inspire attendees at every level, from farmers to community leaders, about the value-add and practical applications of agrivoltaics and ecovoltaics.

Connection Hubs

Designed to foster collaboration and communication, the Connection Zones offer government office hours, networking opportunities, and media engagement, allowing attendees to make valuable connections throughout the event.

Poster Galleries

Solar Chefs and Craft Market

Join us for live culinary demonstrations where local chefs transform solar-farmed ingredients into delicious creations. Immerse yourself in the sights, smells, and flavors of food grown with the power of the sun. Meet the farmers and ranchers behind the ingredients—lamb, honey, fruits, and veggies—all sourced from solar-integrated farms. Don't just learn about the future of energy and agriculture—taste it! Then, browse a vibrant craft market featuring local artisans and farm-inspired goods.
