Results of the Election

The results are in, and Mr. Tom Thompson has been declared the winner of the San Angelo mayoral election! Voter turnout in the 2025 city election increased dramatically compared to the last election: a whopping 11,071 voters showed up to make their voices heard this year, nearly double compared to 6,341 in 2021! That's a huge leap, with the turnout rate jumping from 10.33% to 16.74%. Thank you to the voters of San Angelo who went to the polls on May 3rd for helping make this election even more representative of the people of San Angelo!

How We Made Our Voter Brochure

Bringing our election brochure to life was a difficult task, but our team rose to the challenge! Balancing the project with our high school schedules, we spent weeks sending out questionnaires and coordinating interviews with every candidate in the mayoral race. Out of 11 candidates, we successfully interviewed 9 over the course of a month—including the newly elected Mayor Tom Thompson himself!

Mayoral and City Council Elections

What Is On My Ballot is a nonprofit, nonpartisan voter advocacy organization based in San Angelo. To get involved with us, visit WhatIsOnMyBallot.org/Volunteer-With-Us.

Recognition from the County Administration

In late April, we had the honor of meeting Tom Green County Election Administrator Ms. Vona Hudson to present our completed brochure. Her response was one of total excitement and full support, and together, we explored new ways to expand What Is On My Ballot's reach across San Angelo. Thanks to her partnership, our website was officially linked on the Tom Green County Elections website at TomGreenCountyTX.gov/page/electHomeNew – a major step forward in reaching close to voters!

Media Coverage

We're incredibly proud to have been featured by San Angelo's top three news outlets: FOX West Texas, San Angelo LIVE!, and KLST/KSAN News! In each interview, founder Akash Vukoti spoke about the story behind our nonprofit, the power of voter education, and the importance of exercising civic duty, urging citizens to vote. Additionally, Ms. Vona Hudson endorsed our organization in the FOX TV interview, a meaningful moment of validation for us!

Akash with KLST/KSAN reporter Aaron McGuire for an interview for Concho Valley Homepage

Through these media appearances, we reached thousands of San Angelo residents and spread our message far and wide, sparking an important conversation about civic responsibility and building lasting momentum up until the elections. We thank the amazing media teams at these news stations for giving us the next-level reach that comes with their platform! You can find all the coverage on our website at WhatIsOnMyBallot.org/In-The-News.

Turning Readers into Voters

Another big shoutout goes to the Tom Green County Library System, which supported our efforts by displaying printouts of our brochure and QR codes at their locations across the county. Libraries are vital hubs for civic learning, and this partnership helped us expand our reach even further, especially to residents seeking trustworthy, accessible election resources!

Impact of Businesses

Our mission received amazing support from local businesses, too! Sam's Club and Angelo Pharmacy welcomed our voter awareness stalls at their stores. These outreach booths gave us the chance to talk directly with members of the community, sharing valuable information about the candidates, how to vote, and why participation matters. We're incredibly grateful to these retailers for believing in our cause and giving us the space to engage with voters face-to-face!

Retrospective on the Election

From brochures and booths to interviews and media coverage to meetings with city and county officials, every step we took leading up to May 3rd had one goal: to raise awareness and get the people of San Angelo voting – and together, we did it! The success of this election is incredibly encouraging for us, and we can't wait to keep building on this momentum. Thank you for believing in us, supporting us, and voting with purpose! The future of What Is On My Ballot is just beginning, and it's looking bright!
