

An aerial photograph of a large, two-story wooden house with a brown tiled roof, situated on a lush green island. The house features multiple balconies and is surrounded by numerous palm trees and dense tropical vegetation. In the foreground, there is a large, irregularly shaped swimming pool with a curved edge, containing a small island with a white umbrella and lounge chairs. The pool is bordered by a light-colored gravel path. The overall scene is serene and secluded, with the island surrounded by water.
