This is the artwork for one of the QSL cards provided by the Collins Radio Company for use by their employees who were licensed amateur radio operators during the late 1950s into the early 1960s. The call sign is printed in the white area above the Collins logo. In the sample K9STH card the type font is Arial. However, any type font can be used. The color of the printing is per the following formula:

Red 102
Green 138
Blue 171

To download the artwork "right click" on the article and then copy to your computer. This will "take down" the entire article. Then use a graphics program to isolate the front and back of the card. Next add the particular station information and then print the cards as necessary.
