Current relevant Spring updates

Intelligence Search: Metering

Spring are seeking approaches that could bring about significant improvement in metering, with an active interest in how AI, automation and digital workflow technologies could improve the efficiency and reliability of metering operations.

While the deadline is technically closed, we have extended it especially for this conference! Please submit your expertise, innovations and lessons learned ASAP (by 8am 04/09/26).

Intelligence Search: Leakage

Spring will soon be announcing a new Intelligence Search in a specific area within leakage. Everyone from innovators to academics to water companies and everyone in between will be able to submit case studies, innovations and expert opinion.

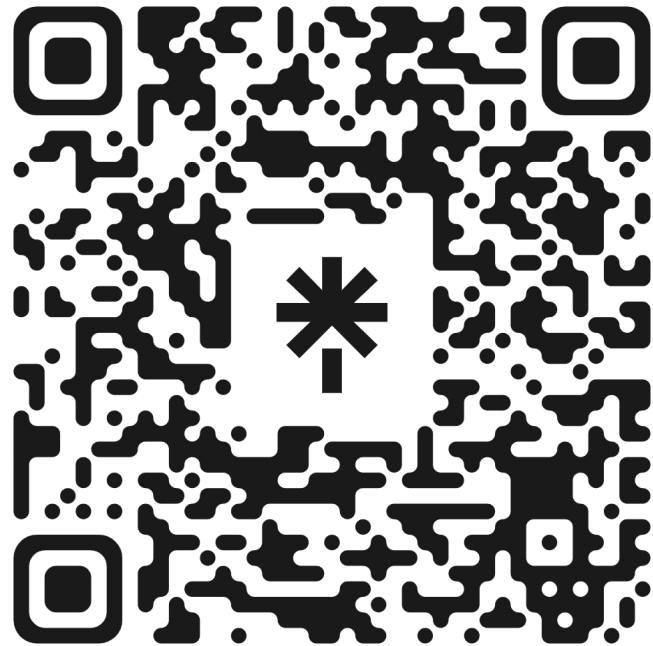

Sign up to our newsletter or follow Spring on LinkedIn to find out further information when it's released.

Sector Coordinator: Leakage

This Intelligence Report will establish a case study, trial and project landscape across the PALM framework, drawing on expert opinion throughout. This will build on the sector's existing knowledge, adding an extra level of detail on the supply chain, on academia and an international perspective on climate driven bursts.

The next Spring Sector Coordinator will be announced shortly. Anyone and everyone is welcome to get involved. All water companies will have access to all outputs.
