HUNTER'S STORY

When Hunter was growing up, we used to say he was a 'little old man'. Far older than his years, he was a smart, affectionate, athletic boy – everything came easily to him. He was a great student – winning awards, on the honour roll, and excelled at every sport he played. But hockey, that was his real passion and he played competitive hockey into his teen years.

But one day everything changed. While playing hockey, Hunter suffered a life-changing concussion and that was the moment everything changed. The recovery was long and isolating. He missed months of school and had to spend time in a darkened room. He was unsteady on his feet and his mood changed and he lost his passion – hockey. He would never be able to play contact hockey again.

All the telltale signs were starting to appear. New 'friends' started hanging around. He was missing curfew, his grades were slipping and he started to become a follower, not the leader he once was. When his mother confronted him, he admitted to using marijuana but that was it. Then she found out one morning that he was using cocaine.

When his mom, Cindy, dropped the shame, and talked openly about their situation, she was overwhelmed by all the support they received. Through the difficulty of recovery, withdrawal and relapse, Hunter found the Dave Smith Youth Treatment Centre. When he went into residential treatment, he got back on track with his life, finished his high school credits and applied for five universities and accepted to four of them. Hunter is currently studying at Carleton University. He always wanted to give back to the place that saved him. And he loves – and is really good – at golf.

And that was how the Drop the Shame and Get In the Game Golf Tournament was born!

ABOUT THE DAVE SMITH YOUTH TREATMENT CENTRE

Every year in Ontario, thousands of young people from all walks of life become seriously addicted to drugs and/or alcohol. Tragically, addiction complicates the already difficult teenage years, swallows potential, and tears families apart. Left untreated, addiction can lead to long-term physical and mental health problems, crime and even death.

Since 1993, the Dave Smith Youth Treatment Centre has helped thousands of young people aged 13-21 to overcome addiction and mental health issues. As Eastern Ontario's only live-in treatment facility, we work closely with these vulnerable clients and their families, helping young people develop the confidence, resilience and life skills to recover and to be contributing members of the community. Along with the life-changing benefits at a human level, this work results in enormous financial savings and a lasting ripple effect across society.
