“Embracing Alternative Ways of Engagement when Discussing Palestine and Israel at American Universities”

Rabbi Ryan Mallek, M.A., M. Ed., Dayan

Department of Philosophy

From 2016-2019, Rabbi Ryan Mallek was a dialogue facilitator for an organization called Hands of Peace which brought together Palestinian, Israeli and American teenagers to learn conflict transformation through dialogue. The model inspires him to believe that productive and structured dialogue is the best way to bring together representatives of different narratives. He would like to formulate constructive ways of engagement for universities struggling with how to have difficult conversations around the topic of Israel/Palestine.
