

28th Erlenmeyer Flask (EMF) – Preview

Once again the flask strays. For the fourth time in 28 tries the EMF is moved to high grass heaven, aka Met-muh-muh-Fields. No big whoop for the gentler and kindler Serb. Met Fields is a joy. A Saturday in the spotlight during the Hoo Hoo Shoot off-day will only enhance the allure and twinkle of this EMF gem. Ahhh the Erlenmeyer Flask. So bonafide and beautifide.

But wait. A 16-15-16-15-16-now 15 man field at the HHS can only generate two measley teams for the EMF? The Serbs ask one more time: A 16-15-16-15-16-now 15 man field at the HHS can only generate two measley teams for the E-M-F? The is another in the long line of public humiliations for the Serb. This once proud lot that has often sniffed at the hind quarters of the elusive Big Blue can no longer find even 12 beating hearts for a good Saturday walk that is not only not spoiled, but very much not unspoiled. Sure the HHS has been a shart show this time (what with no BDD, no ERN, no WAR, no CGO, no LAV, no nobody! And then all the unquals just farging abounding.) But even so, still there was an real and easy pathway to a Mutatos again...and what does the Serb get again? Bupkis. Pure Bupkis. What is it with these three HHS stooges: MEL, TBK and, JUD? It's a Saturday morning? Tape the frickin' cartoons on your betamax. They'll be there when you get home. Think of Poor Geary. Poor little Geary. Aced out, by a bunch of nerds.

Anyway, the Serb is happy to say that Bureau is here again to take on this suddenly dominating Syndicate that is looking for the aforeunmentioned fore-pete. The Serb's data scientologists have confirmed that this might be the most evenly matched a two-team EMF maybe has ever been. Unrounded, the team handicaps are actually within one one-millionth of a stroke of each other.

The weather will be remarkable. Sunshinin' down. Could be cold at 8:00. The favors only the Flask.

Here's The Serb's quick take...

- The Syndicate (6) – BT3, W, LUF, TST – Same old same old, although a few are peaking as the days grow shorter. The Serb calls for dominance all day. No passing Go. Go directly to FOUR!
- The Bureau (6) – EPY, JRY, STL, DOED – As always The Serb sees great things. All four of these gentlemen are fine players, with plenty of good humor and good shots to call out sing-song-ingly. But the Bureau a winner? +150
- The Flask has gone Green – Flusher than ever (waiting on data scientologists to confirm) at $520. Add $320 in new fees and you got a stew going. 21 under is proly safe safe safe.

So, The Serb has to see between the fine lines. The Serb always digs Big Syndy but the Bureau has the real Big Cindy. Too close for the Serb to call? No-sir-ee Big Dan.

The Serb's Analysis:

Met Fields will protect the Flask. The Syndy may be too much, but so may be the Bureau. The Serb says awfully close. The flask hopes so and The Serb knows that's what it gone be.

The Serb's Predictions:

- 1) No weather doin' nothin' all dadgum day.
- 2) The Bureau never wavers. Solid all day.
- 3) The Syndicate jumps out, pulls back, jumps out again, pulls back again, and then finishes like a champion.
- 4) The Flask is the only real winner!

28th EMF Winner: The Flask. (TS -16 TB -16)
