

RECAP - MONDO AT ROYAL MADISON 2015

Whoa. What just happened?

That is a question scholars ask themselves every spring at the conclusion of the annual running of The Mondo. This year is no different - even with the addition of onsite reporters to try and keep track of the everpresent disorder - things just seem all crazy all the time and whatnot.

Well its been a 10 days now. Is that long enough to declare an official acceptance of the declared official winner? Its never over until it is..... well..... its never over. Lets just say that.

So this is what we think occurred on June 20, 2015 at Royal Madison Golf Club:

EMERGENCY IN SURGERY: The sixteen (not a record) man field was quickly reduced to fifteen as Dr. O got called away from the Mondo. Before he ever even got to the Mondo! Whoever said doctor jobs were all birthday cakes and lemon tarts obviously never met Dr. Steve Orlevitch, M.D. before. His credentials are top-notch. He graduated Harvard College Yale, aced every semester, and got an A. He doesn't even have time to go to the toilet. Next year hopefully.

FLIGHT 'EM AGAIN: Tournament Director Peeps Tilly rounded up the remainders and put the best with the best and the worst with the worst. This reporter can say that. He has been the worst. David Flynn, he of boastful intentions, took the top spot in the Premier League joined by Dick's Hatband champion Matt Geary, 15-time Major champion Brad Tilly and Hoo Hoo Shoot star Eric Nieu Kirk.

ANTI-SHAPIRO FLAGS AND MEASURING STRING: After reading a particularly inspiring Hints From Heloise, Peeps got hisself over to Hobby Lobby to pick up some art supplies before they closed. Then he headed down to his woodshop and carefully filled sixteen camouflaged nylon squares of fabric with moisture attracting rice and then hermetically sealed each of them with one piece of single-sided Scotch tape. We haven't seen construction this tight since the Falcon-9 took off yesterday. Furthermore, one reporter overheard another reporter say "With these camouflage flags, Peeps has succeeded in making something that is actually less visible than having no flags at all." However and on the other hand, Peeps New Yardage Measuring Machines have ruled the world. A simple ball of twine (uh, ours was quite knotted and unrollable by the end of the day) to determine relative distance - genius? Scholars applauded.

WEATHER: Brilliant! Warm, not windy. Sunny.
