Thomas McAdams Announces Election Bid for State House District 130

Augusta, GA – Thomas McAdams announced today that he will be seeking Georgia’s 130th State House District Seat and will qualify in Atlanta later this week as a Republican.

Thomas McAdams is an Augusta native. A lifelong resident of HD 130, he has seen first-hand how Augusta has grown and understands the needs of the growing community. He is a committed husband and father of 5, with he and his wife Jenna’s sixth on the way. He is a spiritual father to many through his ministries serving various groups in the community and beyond. He currently serves as the Chief Administrative Officer for the Alleluia Christian Service Center, where he is actively working to develop systems of communications that build community life.

While in Atlanta for qualifying, Thomas will meet with multiple representatives and senators of the Richmond/Columbia delegation.

The 130th House District is made up of portions of Richmond County.
