For every issue I create I get excited as if it were the first. Like a little kid I can't wait to show you the magic in these images!

Every issue features everyday people who have a story about transformation. I showcase the inner and outer power of believing in you. I use a variety of body shapes, sizes, ages and ethnicities. My tools; hair, makeup, photography and digital editing. I am super excited to be using new lighting from Paul C. Buff. I take all these yummy pieces and mix them in my glam cauldron to create these captivating dream images.

This issue I focused on more magical themes and of course in glam sexy fashion to inspire my models and the readers. This issue is a celebration of all things magical. Fairy queens, cowgirl pinup, dark mermaids or military pinup and more are filled within this issue. I had an amazing time dreaming these images into creation. Once again I try to demonstrate the power of glam to uplift and inspire you to step out of your shell. Get ready for sexy pinups, mermaids, goddesses and more gorgeous glam fun.

The fantasy images I create in this magazine are moments of my dreams. This is my opportunity to showcase what can be done in a session. Moreover, I use this opportunity to transport people to fantasy worlds. In these places you are daring, edgy and hell 'a gorgeous. Anything is possible. You can become a mermaid swimming in the sea or a witch casting her magick spells or even a pinup on a WWII motorbike. I create a story with the image inspired by my dreams. Sometimes I look at someone or a costume piece and the story unfolds or I create the story and recruit the model. The models are just everyday women looking for a little sparkle and may not know how bright they can shine. The sessions make for a magical time where I am excited before I even edit because I can see what can't be seen, possibility.

I never set out to do it all but I am focused on creating dreams and I don't wait for anyone to tell me what I can do. I just figure out what I want to create. I find everything demands the same set of skills.

I have added more images this issue to show the sexy fun themes and of course a variety of models old and new in glam style. Join me for a magical time where I will cast my glamour spell on you. You may become obsessed, you need to sparkle in Baronés glam style.

Shine Bright,

Lovey

JELLYFISH GLAM

Ms. Parker is not only a chameleon and a jellyfish. If you haven't noticed she is on the cover as WW II Military Pinup. Just a regular girl who works a regular job with an insane work schedule. Her fun and release is costumes! She has more costumes than I could have imagined. She calls her collection her tickle trunk. When she came to the session she had a special James Dean suitcase, her tickle trunk, that houses her dream costumes.

It was like a kid in a candy store for me, so many ideas and pieces to choose from. You will see her here in issue four as a military pinup, glammed jellyfish and Morgana from King Arthur.

Sometimes just letting yourself play is what gets you through life. Taking time out to imagine you a different character and having the images to remind yourself how amazing you are when life gets tough. Ms. Parker had a blast getting glammed, which is from her everyday routine. She was gammed for anything. The session was a magical event where she transformed from one character to the next.

She always had a love for acting and has a background in Theater this was the perfect opportunity to break out the tickle trunk and play. Join Ms. Parker as she creates one character to the next in next cosplay spirit.

TIMELESS GLOW

This lovely Madame Butterfly is a prime example of what beauty means as being timeless. People are often disregarded as they age. They are made to feel they're not valuable. In society women are valued by their beauty, as women become older they are challenged with creating new ideas of what beauty is and who they are. When we are no longer considered attractive women seem to lose their value? How do we define what it means to be an attractive woman?

This butterfly fully embraces aging and is having the time of her life. Too busy jet setting to notice the clock she redefines the meaning of aging. It is a choice as to what you decide holds value for you. Instead of playing along with the mainstream ideas of women and aging. It is a new time where women are defining their value and they are timeless.

A tired old phrase this butterfly hears is, "you look good for your age". Most women are flattered to hear this, but why? Yeah you're in the club, you're still valuable! Madame Butterfly has a different response; "I should look good because it's me not a comparison to any standard of what we should look like". More over a stamp of approval you are what society deems attractive and then therefore accepted. As a result you know you have value.

This timeless beauty defines her value. She transforms as she gets older into a beautiful butterfly, when for most people they give up, and become depressed because they aren't young.

Madame butterfly was the best representation, I felt, showcased this dynamic lady. Graceful, elegant yet fluid she floats in and out of time to define her own reality. You may call her Madame Butterfly and like it or not she looks amazing as the woman she is, not for her age.
