Common Issues For Boston Terriers

This doesn't mean your boston will have any of these things, it's just something that is common in them. Also seek out to your vet if you have concerns.

→ Short Snout- This can cause inverted sneezing or a reverse sneeze, breathing difficulties, drooling, snoring, and snorting.

→ Dry Skin- This can cause your boston to itch a lot, dry flakey skin, I recommend to only bathe or groom them 1 time a season to keep them from getting dry. (unless it's absolutely necessary)

→ Food Allergy- This can cause your boston to get Pancreatitis which is not fun. Please be very careful with dog foods. Wet foods especially. Be very cautious if you feed your dog human food. If you are going to switch their food, please make sure you mix the new food slowly in the food daily until they are on the new one and watch closely for a change in them. Any sudden hives, vomiting, itching, or diarrhea can be a sign of an allergy.

→ Corkscrew Tail- Most Boston's will have what they call a corkscrew tail, it is not broken, it is the way their tail is. Some can be very long, some can be very short. Their tails are very sensitive, most would rather you not touch it. Also it is common for Boston's to have a bald spot on their tail. It is normal.

→ Eye Disease- Male bostons can carry a genetic eye disease. You can have them tested for this.

→ Cancer- Bostons have been known to be prone to cancer. Make sure you're watching for lumps that are abnormal on your puppy or dog.

→ Cherry Eye- Cherry eye is common. It can happen very early or it can happen later in life. Some can be pushed back in. If you notice red in your dog's eye that appears abnormal please have the vet look at it immediately to try some remedies to get rid of it before it gets large.

*Please feel free to reach out with any questions you may have. ENJOY!!!!
