

Taking the Petroleum Industry

in New Directions.

The petroleum industry is entering a new era. One in which success depends on your ability to integrate data and information across the entire oil field life cycle. It's an era where multi-disciplinary teams need to work closely together to find and manage oil and gas reserves. And at Landmark, we're the industry leader in helping companies do just that.

Our broad family of integrated software, systems and services will enable you to maximize recoverable reserves and improve profitability. We can also analyze and improve your workflow processes to create a highly efficient environment. One that puts all your data and computing power at your team's fingertips.

For your free guidebook on how our software, systems and services can help you get the most out of your data — and maximize your potential — call us today at +44 (0) 1932 832097.

With Landmark, you'll make better decisions.

Balance Your Options

Manage Risk. Reduce Cycle Times. Boost Productivity.

Today, the petroleum industry is entering an era in which competitiveness is measured not simply by reserves in the ground, but also by knowledge about those reserves. To succeed you need to quickly and accurately analyze and interpret huge volumes of data through every phase of the oil field life cycle. That's where we can help. ♦ Landmark provides the most integrated suite of E&P solutions available. Our software, data management and professional services are helping asset teams gain vital knowledge about a reserve's value. And because our applications are fully integrated, every piece of information is available to every member of the team. Right when they need it. ♦ At Landmark, we can help you succeed. We're ready to show you how to balance your options quickly and carefully. And how that can help you better manage risk, reduce cycle times and boost productivity.
