8. Travel Experience: I haven't travelled much. My furthest travel experience was in China, where I was born. I can't write much about my life in China, because we came to Canada when I was almost nine months old. We took the train from Canton to Hong Kong. We then took the plane to Japan for refueling. Our next stop: Vancouver. The rest is history. I've also been to close cities such as Bellingham, Seattle, Victoria, and Nanaimo several times.

9. Other hobbies and/or interests (If possible tell me why?):

I used to collect stamps but lost interest. Now I collect comics, hockey cards, and plane models. Making models help me relax. When I'm making one I forget about all of my troubles. I used to collect eleven comic titles. That brought my budget to $25.00 a month (a lot for an eleven year-old!). Now I collect just one title: Spiderman. My budget is just $2.25 a month.

I got started on hockey cards two months ago. My collection holds over one thousand cards worth over $175.00. I collect cards for the same reason as comics; they're extremely profitable!

10. Future Ambitions:

Most people hope their future ambitions will be fulfilled. That's the same with me. After completing high school at Gladstone, I would like to go to U.B.C. and study medicine. After several years I would then make Mc Gill University, my next stop. I don't know if I want to become a family doctor or surgeon, or maybe both. It's a high-paying job and I'd get the satisfaction of helping other people. I'm prepared to face about two more decades of schooling. It'll be worth it!
