President's Letter

To the members of Chester/Delaware County Farm Bureau, I hope everyone had a joyous holiday season. The new year is off to a cold start, but warmer days will be here before we know it. Land preservation has been a big issue in our county. Although many acres of farmland have been preserved from development over the years in our county, not all of the funding sources allow agricultural uses on the land after it is preserved. It's a hard pill to swallow, seeing a farm saved from development knowing rows of corn, soybeans or wheat will not grow on those fields in the future.

After meeting with the County Commissioners earlier this year, they agreed with our concerns about land preservation funding. A letter has been sent by the Commissioners to Secretary Cindy Dunn, PA DCNR and Secretary Russell Redding, PA Department of Agriculture, which asks to explore ways to fund land preservation that allows agricultural use. Chester-Delaware Farm Bureau, multiple agriculture organizations and five Land Preservation Groups and Trusts cosigned on the letter, highlighting the importance of agriculture to our county. Chester County has formed a partnership with the Chester County Economic Development Council, forming a partnership to improve and expand AgConnect to promote our agricultural industry. AgConnect's goal is to expand markets, promote agriculture, connect producers with funding, and address labor issues. Chester-Delaware Farm Bureau was extended a seat on the advisory executive committee of AgConnect.

In closing, I would like to congratulate Bob and Ryan Rohrer of Rob-Roy Farm, named Farmer of the Year and Lisa McNamara our Duncan Allison Distinguished Service to Agriculture recipient.

Thank you for your dedication to our agricultural community.

CDCFB Committee Reports

Women's Leadership Committee

The Women's Leadership Committee is currently working on dispersing this year's Farm-tastic book "My Grandpa, My Tree, and Me" by Roxanne Troup to local libraries. We have also begun planning for the Farmer's Care 2025. This year, we'll be turning this into a friendly competition between FFA chapters to see which group can turn their allotted dollar amount into the most pounds of food. If you're interested in getting involved with the Women's Leadership Committee or any of the events mentioned above, please reach out.

Respectfully,

Anna Brown, CDCFB Women's Leadership Committee Chair

Congratulations to Jane Pepple!

Jane Pepple was honored at the 2024 Chester County 4H Dairy & Goat Banquet with the President's Volunteer Service Award for completing more than 4,000 hours of service throughout her lifetime! Congratulations Jane, we are proud to have you and Bob as members.

Government Relations

One of the most important things that the Chester-Delaware County Farm Bureau does is advocate for legislation that protects and aids farmers and the agriculture industry within our counties. Right now, we are forming our Legislative Committees for the next two years. Fire Extinguisher Insights: A Lesson Learned from a Close Call

A few evenings ago I was driving through the town of Jennersville when I came upon an abandoned car on fire in the middle of the south-bound lane. As the fire appeared to only have recently begun under the hood, I quickly pulled the fire extinguisher that I carry in my pickup truck and attempted to do what I could while calling 911. Fortunately a policeman arrived soon after and was able to help protect the scene until the EMS folks showed up. The fact that my trusty extinguisher fizzled out as quickly as all my high school romances bothered me for several days afterward.

I decided to research extinguishers in an attempt to ensure that I am better prepared for the next encounter I may find myself in. For most farms, it is wise to upgrade to a Class ABC extinguisher since that is the formula designed to handle fires with energized electrical equipment (designated by the letter C) as many of our ag-related buildings contain hefty electrical service and gadgetry that would make having the wrong formula a rather shocking experience. It is important to keep in mind that just because we mount an extinguisher on a truck or tractor, doesn't mean we are guaranteed to use it in a fire related only to that equipment. It is better to err on the safe side.

Furthermore, just like the country song by Joe Nichols, size matters. I stocked two of the 2-pound models in my pickup truck because they are handy to mount to the back rack and fit in the toolbox, but my disappointing experience mentioned earlier has lead me to now pack two of the 5-pound models. A quick Google search of the www.NFPA.org site further taught me that I need to inspect my extinguishers monthly to be sure each one is accessible in its designated place, and fully charged according to the gauge.

I have also found solace in writing the purchase date/installation date on each extinguisher as well. The NFPA recommends replacing disposable extinguishers every 12 years, and rechargeable ones every 6 years. Extinguishers are like an insurance policy: very necessary, but you hope to never need them.

Meet Our New Board Members

Mindy Beam was raised in Elverson, PA, on her family's diverse agricultural operation, which includes hogs, cattle, and crops. From a young age she actively participated in 4-H showcasing cattle, sheep, and hogs in Chester County. In 2021, Mindy graduated from Penn State with a degree in Animal Science and minors in AgBusiness and International Agriculture. Following graduation, she moved to Ohio to work as a Business Analyst and Administrator for United Producers Inc., a livestock brokerage company. While in Ohio, she engaged with the local farm bureau and worked on a hog farm during her free time. Recently, Mindy returned to her family's farm and now works as a Sales Representative for Animal Health Vision covering Eastern Pennsylvania and Maryland. Despite her professional commitments, she remains involved in her family's farm and dedicates time to serving her church community.

David Lytle is the third generation to operate the family farm that David's grandfather established in New London Township, Chester County. While David's farming activities began about 50 years ago in 4-H — where he started the purebred Hampshire flock he has today — the family has recently focused on their growing agri-tourism business, Lytle's Corn Maze, Pumpkin Patch, and Farm. The fourth generation Lytles are an integral part of the business offering creative direction and social media efforts. David and his family have recently renovated and established an Airbnb in their 18th century farmhouse. With his B.S. in Agriculture Business Management from the University of Delaware, David built a 40-year career in agriculture business. He retired in 2022 from a position at Arm & Hammer Animal Nutrition, where he managed a $40MM business supporting agriculture from Florida to Michigan. David's board experiences include three terms on the National Hampshire Sheep Association where he served as vice president and president.

Chris MacCauley resides in Atglen, PA; he grew up on his family's sheep operation, MacCauley Suffolks. Growing up Chris was an active member in both 4H and FFA, exhibiting sheep, cattle and hogs, as well as exhibiting sheep on a national level. Chris attended Penn State majoring in Agribusiness Management with a minor in Animal sciences; while at PSU Chris was an active member of Block and Bridle as well as the Livestock Judging team. Chris continues to be involved with the United Suffolk Sheep Association and is a board member of the Chester County 4H Center Board of Directors. Chris and his wife Justene operate a small flock of Suffolk sheep and have recently started breeding Quarter Horses.

Meet the CDCFB Business Manager!

Raquel Holcomb stepped into the role of Business Manager for CDCFB this past fall. A Chester County native, Raquel graduated from Oxford Area High School and studied Nutritional Sciences at Penn State.

Her connection to farming comes from summers spent at her grandparents hay and straw farm in Middletown, DE. Her parents, Ed and Kim Squires, have been members of CDCFB as friends of agriculture because of their family business, E.Squires Paving, doing work for farmers. One fall day in 2020, while working with her father, Raquel met Janet Robinson and a farm bureau seed was planted!

Raquel believes for many consumers, there is a disconnect between how food gets from the market to the plate and is hoping her work as Business Manager can assist farmers as they work to educate the public about agriculture. Raquel resides in Landenberg with her husband, Ben, their two children: Arthur (5), Violet (2), and mini labradoodle Pepper. Raquel can be reached at cdcfbmanager@gmail.com.
